Lippmann the late journalist and social critic provides a fundamental treatise on the nature of human information and communication The work is divided into eight parts covering such varied issues as stereotypes image making and organized intelligence The study begins with an analysis of the world outside and the pictures in our heads a leitmotif that starts with issues of censorship and privacy speed words and clarity and ends with a careful survey of the modern newspaper Lippmann's conclusions are as meaningful in a world of television and computers as in the earlier period when newspapers were dominant Public Opinion is of enduring significance for communications scholars historians sociologists and political scientists Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved Congressional Record United States.
