Trauma Fear and Love Franz Ruppert,2015-03-01 This is the fourth book by Professor Franz Ruppert translated into English from the German original In it Ruppert continues his exploration of the impact of trauma on human beings that has been the topic of his previous books This book looks at the structure and functioning of the psyche and how traumas influence psychological functioning He takes a holistic stance understanding the psyche as part of the psychosomatic system and shows how the separation of mind and body is impossible illogical and unhelpful Traumas are always psychosomatic events whether seemingly a physical trauma or a psychological trauma Using many case examples Ruppert explores the underlying issue of relational trauma the perpetrator victim dynamics at play His exploration and developed theories of perpetrator and victim look deeply into the nature origins and rationale of perpetration as in itself a result of traumatising It is not helpful to think of perpetrators as just evil we have to understand how the person becomes a perpetrator the context of the perpetrator sometimes over several generations This is an exciting book Ruppert has the ability to reach beyond the conventional boundaries of psychotherapeutic thinking questioning some of our basic assumptions and building on our accumulated knowledge He brings a sharp scientific eye to the complex world of consciousness and the psyche the results of which can only enhance our understanding

Symbiosis and Autonomy Franz Ruppert,2012-07 This is the third book by Professor Franz Ruppert to be translated into English In it he explores the relationship between our symbiotic interconnectedness and our ability to be autonomous in our lives The relationship between these two aspects of being is absolutely influenced by early attachment trauma what Ruppert has termed symbiotic trauma the trauma of an infant attempting to connect with a mother who is herself already traumatised Additionally Ruppert gives a detailed account of the Constellation of the Intention the process he has devised for working with the psychological splits induced by trauma This is a particular form of constellation that addresses issues of fragmentation For those interested in trauma and understanding how to work with it this is truly groundbreaking work Ruppert s thinking draws on many historical roots but is even so particularly unique It takes us outside our normal ways of thinking about trauma attachment and what it means to be a human being
