Forced Migration Law And Policy American Casebook Series

Forced Migration David A. Martin, 2007 Forced Migration Law and Policy includes materials on asylum refugees the Convention Against Torture temporary protection schemes and a variety of related topics The principal focus is U S law and policy but the authors have leavened the mix with comparative materials from a variety of countries This new casebook is based on the chapter on refugees and asylum in the Immigration and Citizenship casebook that three of the authors have co authored for some time They have welcomed Maryellen Fullerton to their ranks for this project and for the next edition of the Immigration and Citizenship casebook as well and the four authors have drawn on that chapter for the Forced Migration volume But as the title suggests this new casebook not only significantly reorganizes and expands that material but also reflects the authors effort to rethink the evolving conceptual architecture of this field The book is designed for use in a three hour law school course but with judicious paring can be readily used for a two hour course or as the foundation of a seminar

The Law of Forced Migration Audrey Macklin, 2003

Driven from Home David Hollenbach, SJ, 2010-04-19 Throughout human history people have been driven from their homes by wars unjust treatment earthquakes and hurricanes The reality of forced migration is not new nor is awareness of the suffering of the displaced a recent discovery The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that at the end of 2007 there were 67 million persons in the world who had been forcibly displaced from their homes including more than 16 million people who had to flee across an international border for fear of being persecuted due to race religion nationality social group or political opinion Driven from Home advances the discussion on how best to protect and assist the growing number of persons who have been forced from their homes and proposes a human rights framework to guide political and policy responses to forced migration This thought provoking volume brings together contributors from several disciplines including international affairs law ethics economics and theology to advocate for better responses to protect the global community s most vulnerable citizens

Detained Michael Welch, 2002 Details how American immigration law and policy have increasingly relied on incarceration locking up thousands of immigrants not because they pose any real danger but as a collective expression of moral panic and hostility toward perceived outsiders David Cole back cover

Humanizing Immigration Bill Ong Hing, 2023-10-24 Incisive and compelling reflecting the painful wisdom and knowledge that Bill Ong Hing has accrued over the course of fifty years Michelle Alexander author of The New Jim Crow First book to argue that immigrant and refugee rights are part of the fight for racial justice offers a humanitarian approach to reform and abolition Representing non citizens caught up in what he calls the immigration and enforcement meat grinder Bill Ong Hing witnessed their trauma arriving at this conclusion migrants should have the right to free movement across borders and the right to live free of harassment over immigration status He cites examples of racial injustices endemic in immigration law and enforcement from historic courtroom cases to the recent treatment of Haitian migrants Hing includes histories of Mexican immigration African migration and the Asian exclusion era all of which reveal ICE abuse and a history of often forgotten racist immigration laws While ultimately arguing for the abolishment of ICE Hing advocates for change now With fifty years of law practice and litigation Hing has represented non citizens from gang members to asylum seekers fleeing violence and from individuals in ICE detention to families at the US southern border seeking refuge Hing maps out major reforms to the immigration system making an urgent call for the adoption of a radical racial justice lens Readers will understand the root causes of migration and our country s culpability in contributing to those causes

Immigration Law and Social Justice Bill Ong Hing, Kevin R. Johnson, Jennifer M. Chacon, 2019-10-21 Intended for use with the authors casebook Immigration Law and Social Justice 2018 Immigration Law and Social Justice 2020 Case and Statutory Supplement covers new federal cases enforcement policies and administrative decisions since the book's publication The 2020 Case and Statutory Supplement features Supreme Court cases Trump v Hawaii 2018 The third iteration of the President's travel ban was deemed constitutional in that it included more than just Muslim majority countries and there was consultation throughout the relevant administrative agencies Sessions v Dimaya 2018 The term crime of violence is impermissibly vague with relation to the aggravated felony ground of deportability Pereira v Sessions 2018 A defective Notice to Appear does not stop the clock in accumulating physical presence for purpose of cancellation of removal as a non-lawful permanent resident Federal court decisions Barbosa v Barr 2019 A conviction of robbery in the third degree under a particular Oregon statute is not categorically a crime involving moral turpitude Ms L et al v ICE 2018 The separation of migrant children from their parents at the border violates due process and is not in the public interest County of Santa Clara v Trump 2017 The President's executive order to withhold certain federal funds for so-called sanctuary jurisdictions violates the Tenth and Fifth Amendment rights of the cities and counties involved Additional Updates regarding administrative decisions and actions made between 2017 and 2019

The Politics of Forced Migration Nitza Nachmias, Rami Goldstein, 2005-01-01 They exist under the bland label of displaced persons Twenty one million people forced to surrender what they held dear and sent into exile hope to return to their homes in every region of the earth Their yearnings often have been thwarted by strategic and political constraints while both the international community and the wealthy nations have marginalized their plight Through representative case studies from Asia Africa the Middle East and Europe this book challenges the routine reaction to forced migration and argues that it has always been too little too late The authors conclude that lack of an adequate international legal regime lack of adequate resources lack of operational cooperation among the donors and bureaucratic pathologies are the main reasons for the continued suffering of forced migrants The book addresses these issues and offers novel conceptual legal and operational approaches towards revising the international refugee regime
