Preparing Teachers for Deeper Learning Linda Darling-Hammond, Jeannie Oakes, 2021-02-08 Preparing Teachers for Deeper Learning answers an urgent call for teachers who educate children from diverse backgrounds to meet the demands of a changing world. In today's knowledge economy, teachers must prioritize problem solving ability, adaptability, critical thinking, and the development of interpersonal and collaborative skills over rote memorization and the passive transmission of knowledge. Authors Linda Darling-Hammond and Jeannie Oakes and their colleagues examine what this means for teacher preparation and showcase the work of programs that are educating for deeper learning, equity, and social justice. Guided by the growing knowledge base in the science of learning and development, the book examines teacher preparation programs at Alverno College, Bank Street College of Education, High Tech High's Intern Program, Montclair State University, San Francisco Teacher Residency, Trinity University, and University of Colorado Denver. These seven programs share a common understanding of how people learn that shape similar innovative practices. With vivid examples of teaching for deeper learning in coursework and classrooms, interviews with faculty, school partners, and novice teachers, surveys of teacher candidates and graduates, and analyses of curriculum and practices, Preparing Teachers for Deeper Learning depicts transformative forms of teaching and teacher preparation that honor and expand all students' abilities, knowledges, and experiences, and reaffirm the promise of educating for a better world.

The Math(s) Fix Conrad Wolfram, 2020 Why are we all taught maths for years of our lives? Does it really empower everyone? Or fail most and disenfranchise many? Is it crucial for the AI age or an obsolete rite of passage? The Math(s) Fix: An Education Blueprint for the AI Age is a groundbreaking book that exposes why maths education is in crisis worldwide and how the only fix is a fundamentally new mainstream subject. It argues that today's maths education is not working to elevate society with modern computation, data science, and AI. Instead, students are subjugated to compete with what computers do best and lose. This is the only book to explain why being bad at maths may be as much the subject's fault as the learner's: how a stuck educational ecosystem has students, parents, teachers, schools, employers, and policymakers running in the wrong direction to catch up with real-world requirements. But it goes further too, for the first time setting out a completely alternative vision for a core computational school subject to fix the problem and seed more general reformation of education for the AI age.

Education for Life and Work National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Science Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Committee on Defining Deeper Learning and 21st Century Skills, 2013-01-18 Americans have long recognized that investments in public education contribute to the common good enhancing national prosperity and supporting stable families neighborhoods and communities Education is even more critical today in the face of economic environmental and social challenges Today s children can meet future challenges if their schooling and informal learning activities prepare them for adult roles as citizens employees managers parents volunteers and entrepreneurs To achieve their full potential as adults young people need to develop a range of skills and knowledge that facilitate mastery and application of English mathematics and other school subjects At the same time business and political leaders are increasingly asking schools to develop skills such as problem solving critical thinking communication collaboration and self management often referred to as 21st century skills Education for Life and Work Developing Transferable Knowledge and Skills in the 21st Century describes this important set of key skills that increase deeper learning college and career readiness student centered learning and higher order thinking These labels include both cognitive and non cognitive skills such as critical thinking problem solving collaboration effective communication motivation persistence and learning to learn 21st century skills also include creativity innovation and ethics that are important to later success and may be developed in formal or informal learning environments This report also describes how these skills relate to each other and to more traditional academic skills and content in the key disciplines of reading mathematics and science Education for Life and Work Developing Transferable Knowledge and Skills in the 21st Century summarizes the findings of the research that investigates the importance of such skills to success in education work and other areas of adult responsibility and that demonstrates the importance of developing these skills in K 16 education In this report features related to learning these skills are identified which include teacher professional development curriculum assessment after school and out of school programs and informal learning centers such as exhibits and museums
