Martin Waldseemüller's 'Carta marina' of 1516 Chet Van Duzer,2019-10-09 This open access book presents the first detailed study of one of the most important masterpieces of Renaissance cartography Martin Waldseemüller's Carta marina of 1516 By transcribing translating into English and detailing the sources of all of the descriptive texts on the map as well as the sources of many of the images the book makes the map available to scholars in a wholly unprecedented way In addition the book provides revealing insights into how Waldseemüller went about making the map information that can't be found in any other source The Carta marina is the result of Waldseemüller's radical re-evaluation of what a world map should be he essentially started from scratch when he created it rejecting the Ptolemaic model and other sources he had used in creating his 1507 map and added more descriptive texts and a wealth of illustrations Given its content the book offers an essential reference work not only on this map but also for anyone working in sixteenth century European cartography Women and the Circulation of Texts in Renaissance Italy Brian Richardson,2020-03-26 The first comprehensive guide to women's promotion and use of textual culture in manuscript and print in Renaissance Italy De Sphaera of Johannes de Sacrobosco in the Early Modern Period Matteo Valleriani,2020-01-01 This open access book explores commentaries on an influential text of pre-Copernican astronomy in Europe It features essays that take a close look at key intellectuals and how they engaged with the main ideas of this qualitative introduction to geocentric cosmology Johannes de Sacrobosco compiled his Tractatus de sphaera during the thirteenth century in the frame of his teaching activities at the then recently founded University of Paris It soon became a mandatory text all over Europe As a result a tradition of commentaries to the text was soon established and flourished until the second half of the 17th century Here readers will find an informative overview of these commentaries complete with a rich context The essays explore the educational and social backgrounds of the writers They also detail how their careers developed after the publication of their commentaries the institutions and patrons they were affiliated with what their agenda was and whether and how they actually accomplished it The editor of this collection considers these scientific commentaries as genuine scientific works The contributors investigate them here not only in reference to the work on which it comments but also and especially as independent scientific contributions that are socially institutionally and intellectually contextualized around their authors The Grand Strategy of the Roman Empire Edward Luttwak,2016-05-18 A newly updated edition of this classic hugely influential account of how the Romans defended their vast empire At the height of its power the Roman Empire encompassed the entire Mediterranean basin extending much beyond it from Britain to Mesopotamia from the Rhine to the Black Sea Rome prospered for centuries while successfully resisting attack fending off everything from overnight robbery raids to full scale invasion attempts by entire nations on the move How were troops able to defend the Empire's vast territories from constant attacks And how did they do so at such

Discovering Life, Manufacturing Life Pierre V. Vignais, Paulette M. Vignais, 2010-06-21 Francis BACON in his Novum Organum Robert BOYLE in his Skeptical Chemist and Ren DESCARTES in his Discourse on Method all of these men were witnesses to the scientific revolution which in the 17th century began to awaken the western world from a long sleep. In each of these works the author emphasizes the role of the experimental method in exploring the laws of Nature that is to say the way in which an experiment is designed, implemented, carried out, and tested, and used as a basis for drawing conclusions that are based only on results with their margins of error, taking into account contemporary traditions and prejudices. Two centuries later Claude BERNARD in his Introduction to the Study of Experimental Medicine made a passionate plea for the application of the experimental method when studying the functions of living beings. Twenty-first century Biology, which has been fertilized by highly sophisticated techniques inherited from Physics and Chemistry, blessed with a constantly increasing expertise in the manipulation of the genome, initiated into the mysteries of information technology, and enriched with the ever-growing fund of basic knowledge, at times appears to have forgotten its roots.

Virtues for the People Geert Roskam, L. Van der Stockt, 2011. This collection of essays addresses Plutarch's writings on practical ethics from different perspectives, including regarding their overall structure, content, purpose, and underlying philosophical and social presuppositions.

Bernini Genevieve Warwick, 2012. While Baroque artist Gian Lorenzo Bernini (1598-1680) is celebrated as a sculptor, architect, and painter, it is less known that he also was a playwright, scenographer, actor, and director. The Baroque period saw the rise of opera and ballet, as well as increasingly elaborate scenographic technologies for court and religious theatre. Bernini drew from this lexicon of theatrical effects, deploying light, movement, and the porous boundary between fictive and physical space to forge a language of Baroque illusion for both his scenographies and his sculptural ensembles. Bernini Art as Theatre investigates the different types of cultural space for the staging of his art, from court settings to public squares and church interiors. Drawing parallels between the visual and theatrical arts and highlighting the dramatic amplification of religious art in the period, this provocative study provides a model that can be extended beyond Bernini to enable us to reconsider 17th-century visual culture as a whole.

Remediation Jay David Bolter, Richard Grusin, 1999. A new framework for considering how all media constantly borrow from and refashion other media. Media critics remain captivated by the modernist myth of the new; they assume that digital technologies such as the World Wide Web, virtual reality, and computer graphics must divorce themselves from earlier media for a new set of aesthetic and cultural principles. In this richly illustrated study, Jay David Bolter and Richard Grusin offer a theory of mediation for our digital age that challenges this assumption. They argue that new visual media achieve their cultural significance precisely by paying homage to rivaling and refashioning such earlier media as perspective painting, photography, film, and television. They call this process of refashioning remediation, and they note that earlier media have also refashioned one another: photography remediated painting, film remediated stage production and photography and television remediated film vaudeville and radio National Union Catalog ,1972 Includes entries for maps and atlases The Athenaeum ,1858 Episodes in the Life of the Early Modern Learned Book Ian Maclean,2020-10-26 In Episodes Ian Maclean investigates the ways in which the book trade operated through book fairs and interacted with academic institutions journals and intellectual life in various European settings Germany Italy the Netherlands and England in the long seventeenth century The Birth of the Codex Colin H. Roberts,T. C. Skeat,1987-09-10 In The Codex published in 1954 C H Roberts studied the process by which in the early centuries of our era the roll as the vehicle for literature was replaced by the codex which has remained the format of the book ever since New evidence that has accumulated in the last thirty years has set some of the problems in a new light and in this book published here for the first time in paperback the authors re examine these and offer a different explanation for the remarkable part in the transformation played by the early Church
