The Politics of Financial Risk, Audit and Regulation Apr 27 2021 The biggest corporate failure ever in British history occurred in 2008 with very little forewarning. The management of HBOS, a major national bank with a long history of prudence prior to the merger in 2001, were allowed to act incompetently. Auditors and regulators failed to act, ignoring a key senior whistleblower, and the ‘competitive’ stock market failed to spot management failure in time. This book is the first academic study of this collapse, uncovering some surprising evidence on the power and politics of large financial institutions. It details the processes and degrees to which financial challenge and regulation are undermined by this power. The research exposes a pro-active process of regulatory risk management by these institutions; the ease with which auditors and regulators can be captured; and how politicians and investors can be all too happy to hop on the stock market and management spin ride – with other people’s money. The study questions the ideology and politics which supported and encouraged the management hubris, raising profound questions about the ‘politics’ of the academic disciplines of banking, finance and accounting today, and the theories they underpin. This account of management gone wrong is essential reading for students, researchers and professionals involved in banking, finance, credit infrastructure, economics and management studies.

Audit Reporting for Going Concern Uncertainty May 28 2021 This book employs a narrative analytical approach to explore all aspects of the debate surrounding auditor reporting on going concern uncertainty worldwide. In-depth analysis of significant academic studies and of regulatory perspectives is combined with an illuminating empirical study in the Italian context. The book opens by discussing the assessment of going concern for accounting and auditing purposes. It is examined how going concern is considered in the FASB and IASB accounting standards and how auditors in the PCAOB and IAASB environments should verify its presence in financial statements and report on it in the audit report. Accounting and auditing in relation to going concern in other jurisdictions are also addressed. Research into the determinants, accuracy, and consequences of going concern opinions (GCO) is then thoroughly reviewed, with separate examination of studies and trends in the United States, Europe, and the rest of the world. In the third part of the book, interesting evidence from the Italian Stock Market, including investor reactions to GCOs during the period 2008–2014, is presented and evaluated. The book will be of interest to academics, regulators, and practitioners alike.

Auditing Lovitts Aug 12 2022 Auditing Lovitts is a case study that focuses on audit judgements, rather than the mechanics, of auditing. It does this by providing simulations of the main judgement stages in audits, using two separate years in the life of a company - when it is a small family business with few employees, and when it is a large national listed company with a management hierarchy and sufficient staff to allow optimal segregation of functions, except perhaps in the computer department. It includes the auditing of the company's computerised information systems (CIS), but in such a way as to recognise that accounting students are not likely previously to have taken more than one unit introducing information systems and one covering accounting information systems. It is limited to financial report auditing ? that is, it does not go into other assurance services other than to show where there is scope for them.

Cases in Auditing Apr 19 2023 Cases in Auditing presents students with realistic problems in a case study format, which they are required to solve by applying their knowledge of auditing theory and auditing and accounting standards. The cases require the student to adapt auditing techniques to the demands of a particular situation. The author believes that structuring the book in this way gives the student an appreciation of the need for the auditor to identify the key elements of a client's business, and design an audit that is responsive to them. The Second Edition contains updated versions of 14 of the earlier cases and adds 8 new cases covering: an audit of a computerized accounting system; auditor liability; corporate governance; environmental audit; internal audit and the external auditor; ethics and independence; illegal acts by a client; and risk and audit planning. There are questions for discussion and suggestions for suitable reading for each case.

Auditing That Matters: Case Studies Aug 24 2023 This book and its companion volume, Auditing that Matters Case Studies: The Discussion, provide internal audit practitioners and students of the art with a variety of case studies that can be the basis for discussion and debate on the path to learning work-class internal auditing. Internal auditing leaders want their teams to build their skills, preferably leading to an approach to internal auditing that is consistent across the group. They not only encourage everybody to attend external training sessions, such as the conferences and seminars run by the Institute of Internal Auditors and others, but hold internal staff meetings with educational content. Several bring the entire team together one or more times each year (which can be a challenge for large, global organizations) to hear not only internal but external speakers as a learning and growing experience. The case studies in this book (many of which come from real life) provide materials that internal audit leaders can use to explore and advance internal audit practices. Each presents a situation where the internal auditor has to make a decision. Discussing what that decision should be is an excellent way for both individuals and the team as a whole to upgrade their understanding of world-class internal auditing. These two books can also be used in internal audit college classes, either as topics for group discussion or as essay assignments. Auditing that Matters Case Studies: The Discussion has a number of thoughts about each case study that the facilitator can use. They are suggestions based on my experience as the leader of internal audit functions that were recognized as world-class by firms such as Protiviti, and incorporate the author's thoughts embodied in his prior writings. The direct result can be improved and more valuable services to the organization.
