Friedman,2010 A landslide is a geological phenomenon which includes a wide range of ground movement such as rock falls deep failure of slopes and shallow debris flows which can occur in offshore coastal and onshore environments Although the action of gravity is the primary driving force for a landslide to occur there are other contributing factors affecting the original slope stability Typically pre conditional factors build up specific sub surface conditions that make the area slope prone to failure whereas the actual landslide often requires a trigger before being released This book discusses such triggers as well as their outcomes Studies of landslides that have occurred in various geographical settings are also among the topics examined in this book as well as an analysis of the factors that caused them
