People who belong to the category of the mentally ill face several challenges. One of these challenges is the stigma they have to face. Stigmatization refers to social rejection. Individuals who are often stigmatized are ignored and rejected by other people because of the certain 'label' that they carry. It may also be that their behaviors indicate clearly that they belong to a specifically labeled group. Most particularly, stigmatization of those who are mentally ill is often caused by the belief of the public in different myths, such as those involving the dangers of those who are mentally ill. Uncovering those myths is effective in reducing stigmatization.

Regarding those who are mentally ill, it usually appears that most people react to the mentally ill with rejection and fear. Matthews, Peterson, & Tach (2002) examined the impact of descriptions on the behavior and causal attributions of the target about the actual source of the behavior, the perceived dangerousness, labeling, as well as the sociodemographic characteristics of the participants. About 20 percent of the participants have labeled a specific target which is described with symptoms of depression as having a form of mental illness. As a result, a common responses to the mentally ill are fear and rejection of violence.

On the other hand, research shows that a common response to a person who is mentally ill is fearing violence, with individuals who are diagnosed with mental patients committing violence at a similar rate as those who have not been diagnosed (Matthews, 2002). The perceptions of the public may not necessarily match what is reality because of the lack of contact of the public with the person who has a mental illness.

Alfarez and Lingham (2005) examined the contact with a mentally ill individual along with the stigma revolving mental illness, social distance and perceptions of dangerousness through a telephone survey. They have discovered that, as the own life contact of a participant with mental illness increased, the participants involved were less likely to have

The Literature Review Diana Ridley, 2012-07-31 This Second Edition of Diana Ridley's bestselling guide to the literature review outlines practical strategies for reading and note taking and guides the reader on how to conduct a systematic search of the available literature and uses cases and examples throughout to demonstrate best practice in writing and presenting the review. New to this edition are examples drawn from a wide range of disciplines, a new chapter on conducting a systematic review, increased coverage of issues of evaluating quality and conducting reviews using online sources and online literature, and enhanced guidance in dealing with copyright and permissions issues.

Writing the Literature Review Sara Efrat Efron, Ruth Ravid, 2018-09-25 This accessible text provides a roadmap for producing a high quality literature review, an integral part of a successful thesis, dissertation, term paper, or grant proposal. Each step of searching for, evaluating, analyzing, and synthesizing prior studies is clearly explained and accompanied by user-friendly suggestions, organizational tips, vignettes, and examples of student work. Also featured are excerpts from peer-reviewed quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods articles. This is the first book to focus on crafting different types of reviews: systematic, traditional narrative, or hermeneutic, phenomenological, that reflect the writer's research question, methodological choices, and approaches to knowledge. It describes what all reviews have in common and highlights distinct characteristics of each type. The book includes dos and don'ts for evaluating studies and constructing an argument and software suggestions for locating, organizing, and arranging sources. Pedagogical Features: Checklists and To Do activities that break down key steps to take; Boxed examples, graphics that organize and visually illustrate key concepts and summary tables; Group activities that invite students to further explore and apply the methods discussed in each chapter; Detailed directions for using four different organizing strategies: synthesis matrix, summary table, mapping, and topic outline; End of chapter summaries and What's Next sections; Assessment matrices for reviewing and refining the completed literature review. Winner, First Place, American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year Award, Nursing Research Category.

The Literature Review Lawrence A. Machi, Brenda T. McEvoy, 2012-06-08 This new edition of the best-selling book offers graduate students in education and the social sciences a road map to developing and writing an effective literature review for a research project, thesis, or dissertation. Organized around a proven six-step model and incorporating technology into all of the steps, the book provides examples, strategies, and exercises that take students step by step through the entire process: Selecting a topic; Searching the literature; Developing arguments; Surveying the literature; Critiquing the literature; Writing the literature review. The second edition includes key vocabulary words, technology advice, and additional tips on when and how to write during the early stages, including the use of journals and memoranda to make the literature review process a success.
