Financing Education Quentin Quade, 2018-01-18 Lack of family structure violence in the schools and overcrowded classrooms spur a never ending cry for reforms to confront such issues Quentin L Quade cuts through the alarming din to what he feels is the real heart of the matter the ways society assigns tax dollars dedicated to education what he refers to as educational finance monopoly or EFM In the United States contrary to the practice of many other modern democracies tax dollars are assigned by state bureaucratic structures to each state s own schools Such a system spawns structures and personnel that stay in place irrespective of merit and keep control of all finances An alternative to EFM at work in various other democracies is programs aimed to permit school choice without financial penalty In such systems parents determine the allocation of education dedicated tax dollars and can select schools most suited to their children In contrast under EFM state schools are sheltered from competitive incentives to excel to make themselves choiceworthy And independent schools are damaged because they are deprived of the resources they would have if parents were free to choose On the one side defenders of EFM want political control for financial advantage and to block efforts to change On the other side critics want parents to be free to decide the educational environment for their children Quade maintains that EFM is fundamentally injurious to children parents and the nation that it is maintained by political defenses of financial interests not for reasons of educational merit and that school choice without financial penalty would create better educational conditions and outcomes Financing Education examines the major problems of American K 12 education establishes the casual connections with EFM offers school choice without financial penalty as a powerful and obvious cure and examines several American school choice proposals It will be of interest to policymakers policy analysts educators taxpayers parents and all persons concerned about American s educational quality
