Dieckmann, 2006 Pediatric Education for Prehospital Professionals PEPP represents a comprehensive source of prehospital medical information for the emergency care of infants and children Pediatric Education for Prehospital Professionals (PEPP), Fourth Edition American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP), 2020-02-24 Pediatric Education for Prehospital Professionals PEPP Fourth Edition is an evidence based resource of essential medical content for the assessment and management of infants and children in the field This respected and ground breaking program paired physicians and EMS providers together to ensure the content reflects current best practices and the realities of the field Developed by the American Academy of Pediatrics PEPP is designed to give prehospital professionals the knowledge skills and confidence they need to effectively assess and manage pediatric patients PEPP combines world class content with engaging features and an interactive course to truly prepare prehospital professionals to care for pediatric patients The Fourth Edition Includes A new chapter on Behavioral Emergencies A top flight EMS author team working with AAP physician reviewers to ensure exceptional medical content with a focus on how it is applied in the streets New procedures on tourniquet application and intranasal medication administration Features Include The Pediatric Assessment Triangle PAT represents the essence of the PEPP patient assessment method which includes assessing appearance work of breathing and circulation to the skin The Patient Assessment Flowchart provides students with an easy to understand reference of the pediatric patient assessment process Case Studies provide an opportunity for students to apply the foundational knowledge presented in the chapter and strengthen their critical thinking skills Procedures provide step by step explanations and visual summaries of vital BLS and ALS pediatric care skills Flexible Course Options PEPP Course Coordinators may offer a 2 day onsite course or a 1 day enhanced hybrid course at the BLS or ALS level The onsite course features interactive case based lectures where students apply their knowledge in a safe environment The hybrid course features case based online modules with engaging interactivities including rapid skills demonstration videos that students complete before attending the onsite portion for hands on skill station coaching and small group discussions The BLS level courses are geared toward emergency responders and EMTs while the ALS level courses are geared toward AEMTs and Paramedics Free Speech and the Regulation of Social Media Content Valerie C. Brannon, 2019-04-03 As the Supreme Court has recognized social media sites like Facebook and Twitter have become important venues for users to exercise free speech rights protected under the First Amendment Commentators and legislators however have questioned whether these social media platforms are living up to their reputation as digital public forums Some have expressed concern that these sites are not doing enough to counter violent or false speech At the same time many argue that the platforms are unfairly banning and restricting access to potentially valuable speech Currently federal law does not offer much recourse for social media users who seek to challenge a social media provider's decision about whether and how to present a user's content Lawsuits predicated on these sites' decisions to host or remove content have been largely unsuccessful facing at least two significant barriers under existing federal law First while individuals have sometimes alleged that these companies violated their free speech rights by discriminating against users' content courts have held that the First Amendment which provides protection against state action is not implicated by the actions of these private companies Second courts have concluded that many non constitutional claims are barred by Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act 47 U S C 230 which provides immunity to providers of interactive computer services including social media providers both for certain decisions to host content created by others and for actions taken voluntarily and in good faith to restrict access to objectionable material Some have argued that Congress should step in to regulate social media sites Government action regulating internet content would constitute state action that may implicate the First Amendment In particular social media providers may argue that government regulations impermissibly infringe on the providers' own constitutional free speech rights Legal commentators have argued that when social media platforms decide whether and how to post users' content these publication decisions are themselves protected under the First Amendment There are few court decisions evaluating whether a social media site by virtue of publishing organizing or even editing protected speech is itself exercising free speech rights Consequently commentators have largely analyzed the question of whether the First Amendment protects a social media site's publication decisions by analogy to other types of First Amendment cases There are at least three possible frameworks for analyzing governmental restrictions on social media sites' ability to moderate user content Which of these three frameworks applies will depend largely on the particular action being regulated Under existing law social media platforms may be more likely to receive First Amendment protection when they exercise more editorial discretion in presenting user generated content rather than if they neutrally transmit all such content In addition certain types of speech receive less protection under the First Amendment Courts may be more likely to uphold regulations targeting certain disfavored categories of speech such as obscenity or speech inciting violence Finally if a law targets a social media site's conduct rather than speech it may not trigger the protections of the First Amendment at all
