Women of Owu Femi Osofisan,2006 This is an African retelling of Euripides an unnervingly topical story of a people and a beloved city destroyed by the brutality of war The play was first performed in Lagos in 2003 under the distinguished director Chuck Mike and subsequently toured the UK

Propagation and Reflection of Shock Waves Fedor Vasil'evich Shugaev,L. S. Shtemenko,1998 This volume deals with the propagation of three dimensional shock waves and their reflection from curved walls It is divided into two parts The first part presents a ray method This is based on the expansion of fluid properties in power series at an arbitrary point on the shock front Continuous fractions are used Results for shock propagation in non uniform fluids are given The second part discusses the shock reflection from a concave body The important shock focusing problem is included The work is supported by both numerical and experimental results Many interesting features such as formation of a jet vortices and the appearance of disturbances on the shock front are discussed Besides shock waves in gases the distinctive features of shock propagation through a weakly ionized plasma are considered

Beyond Engineering Robert Pool,1997-07-17 We have long recognized technology as a driving force behind much historical and cultural change The invention of the printing press initiated the Reformation The development of the compass ushered in the Age of Exploration and the discovery of the New World The cotton gin created the conditions that led to the Civil War Now in Beyond Engineering science writer Robert Pool turns the question around to examine how society shapes technology Drawing on such disparate fields as history economics risk analysis management science sociology and psychology Pool illuminates the complex often fascinating interplay between machines and society in a book that will revolutionize how we think about technology We tend to think that reason guides technological development that engineering expertise alone determines the final form an invention takes But if you look closely enough at the history of any invention says Pool you will find that factors unrelated to engineering seem to have an almost equal impact In his wide ranging volume he traces developments in nuclear energy automobiles light bulbs commercial electricity and personal computers to reveal that the ultimate shape of a technology often has as much to do with outside and unforeseen forces For instance Pool explores the reasons why steam powered cars lost out to internal combustion engines He shows that the Stanley Steamer was in many ways superior to the Model T it set a land speed record in 1906 of more than 127 miles per hour it had no transmission and no transmission headaches and it was simpler one Stanley engine had only twenty two moving parts and quieter than a gas engine but the steamers were killed off by factors that had little or nothing to do with their engineering merits including the Stanley twins lack of business acumen and an outbreak of hoof and mouth disease Pool illuminates other aspects of technology as well He traces how seemingly minor decisions made early along the path of development can have profound consequences further down the road and perhaps most important he argues that with the increasing complexity of our technological advances from nuclear reactors to genetic engineering the number of things that can go wrong multiplies making it increasingly difficult to engineer risk out of the equation Citing such catastrophes as Bhopal Three Mile Island the Exxon Valdez the Challenger and Chernobyl he argues that is it time to rethink our approach to technology The days are gone when machines were solely a product of larger than life inventors and hard working engineers Increasingly technology will be a joint effort with its design shaped not only by engineers and executives but also psychologists political scientists management theorists risk specialists regulators and courts and the general public Whether discussing bovine growth hormone molten salt reactors or baboon to human transplants Beyond Engineering is an engaging look at modern technology and an illuminating account of how technology and the modern world shape each other

Values and Valuing in Mathematics Education Philip Clarkson, Wee Tiong Seah, JeongSuk Pang, 2019-04-24 This engaging open access book discusses how a values and valuing perspective can facilitate a more effective mathematics pedagogical experience and allows readers to explore multiple applications of the values perspective across different education systems It also clearly shows that teaching mathematics involves not only reasoning and feelings but also students interactions with their cultural setting and each other The book brings together the work of world leaders and new thinkers in mathematics educational research to improve the learning and teaching of mathematics Addressing themes such as discovering hidden cultural values a multicultural society and methodological issues in the investigation of values in mathematics it stimulates readers to consider these topics in cross cultural ways and offers suggestions for research and classroom practice It is a valuable resource for scholars of mathematics education from early childhood through to higher education and an inspiring read for all mathematics teachers
