GRAMMAR	Discourse markers of contrast and comparison
WRITING	Writing a balanced opinion

Warm-up

If the class is newly formed, you could start the lesson with a “getting-to-know-you” activity: Students mingle and greet each other while finding out names and nationality (if relevant). Model this for the students before they start by greeting the class, giving your name and nationality, and saying basic information about yourself.

Discussion point

Check that everyone understands the words attitude (= someone’s opinions or feelings about something), polite (= behaving in a pleasant way, following the usual rules), and greet (= to behave in a friendly way when you meet someone). Students then discuss the three questions in pairs. After a few minutes, ask pairs to join to form small groups and compare their ideas. Elicit whole-class feedback, including comments on how the students greeted each other in the warm-up mingling exercise (if appropriate). Write useful key vocabulary on the board.

VIDEO

Before you watch

Introduce the topic of the video and ask students to discuss the three situations, deciding what is polite behavior in their culture. To extend the discussion, ask students if they can (a) identify alternative acceptable behavior from other cultures in these situations; and (b) explain how people in their own culture might respond if someone broke the rules in their presence. Monitor and provide feedback as a class.

While you watch

Give students time to read the questions before playing the video. Then, ask the students to predict the answers at this point. Students then watch the video all the way through to check. Tell students it’s not important to understand everything in the video. You can turn on the subtitles if you think your students will benefit from them.

ANSWERS

1 a 2 b 3 a

See page 89 for the video script.

After you watch

Put students into pairs and ask them to discuss the questions. For questions 1 and 3, encourage students to think of arguments for both sides, as a way to develop critical thinking by exploring different viewpoints. Provide feedback as a class.

READING 1

What does polite mean to you?

A Vocabulary preview

1. Students work alone to complete the sentences, and then they check in pairs. Go through the answers with the class. Students can also complete the Vocabulary preview as homework before class.

ANSWERS

1 rude 2. Social media 3 behavior 4 manners
5 judge 6 Smiling 7 tip 8 consider

2. Students then check the sentences they agree with and compare with a partner. Encourage students to take the discussion further by explaining and justifying their opinions.

B Before you read

1. Check that everyone understands acceptable (= considered by most people to be something that is allowed) and interrupting (= doing or saying something to stop someone when they are speaking or doing something). In addition, elicit some examples of public transportation. Students then work alone to complete the quiz.
2. Students compare and discuss their choices in pairs. Encourage them to ask follow-up questions (e.g., Why do you think it is acceptable to ... ?). After a few minutes, open up the discussion, focusing on the biggest differences in opinion.

The Baroque in Architectural Culture, 1880-1980
Andrew Leach,John Macarthur,2016-03-09 In his landmark volume Space Time and Architecture Sigfried Giedion paired images of two iconic spirals Tatlin s Monument to the Third International and Borromini s dome for Sant Ivo alla Sapienza The values shared between the baroque age and the modern were thus encapsulated on a single page spread As Giedion put it writing of Sant Ivo Borromini accomplished the movement of the whole pattern from the ground to the lantern without entirely ending even there And yet he merely groped towards that which could be completely effected in modern architecture achieving the transition between inner and outer space The intellectual debt of modern architecture to modernist historians who were ostensibly preoccupied with the art and architecture of earlier epochs is now widely acknowledged This volume extends this work by contributing to the dual projects of the intellectual history of modern architecture and the history of architectural historiography It considers the varied ways that historians of art and architecture have historicized modern architecture through its interaction with the baroque a term of contested historical and conceptual significance that has often seemed to shadow a greater contest over the historicity of modernism Presenting research by an international community of scholars this book explores through a series of cross sections the traffic of ideas between practice and history that has shaped modern architecture and the academic discipline of architectural history across the long twentieth century The editors use the historiography of the baroque as a lens through which to follow the path of modern ideas that draw authority from history In doing so the volume defines a role for the baroque in the history of architectural historiography and in the history of modern architectural culture
