Shock Waves Stephane Hallegatte, Mook Bangalore, Laura Bonzanigo, Marianne Fay, Tamaro Kane, Ulf Narloch, Julie Rozenberg, David Treguer, Adrien Vogt-Schilb, 2015-11-23. Ending poverty and stabilizing climate change will be two unprecedented global achievements and two major steps toward sustainable development. But the two objectives cannot be considered in isolation; they need to be jointly tackled through an integrated strategy. This report brings together those two objectives and explores how they can more easily be achieved if considered together. It examines the potential impact of climate change and climate policies on poverty reduction. It also provides guidance on how to create a win-win situation so that climate change policies contribute to poverty reduction and poverty reduction policies contribute to climate change mitigation and resilience building. The key finding of the report is that climate change represents a significant obstacle to the sustained eradication of poverty, but future impacts on poverty are determined by policy choices: rapid, inclusive, and climate-informed development can prevent most short-term impacts, whereas immediate, pro-poor emissions reduction policies can drastically limit long-term ones.

The Geography of Climate Change Adaptation in Urban Africa Patrick Brandful Cobbinah, Michael Addaney, 2019-01-29. In addition to the focus on the geography of urban adaptation to climate change in Africa, this collection offers a broader perspective by blending the use of case studies and theory-based research. It examines transformations in climate change adaptation and its future orientation from the perspectives of urban planners, political economists, environmentalists, ecologists, economists, and geographers, thereby addressing the challenges facing African cities' adaptation responses from all angles. Providing up-to-date and authoritative contributions covering the key aspects of climate change adaptation in urban Africa, this book will be of great interest to policymakers, practitioners, scholars, and students of geography, urban development and management, environmental science, and policy, disaster management, as well as those in the field of urban planning.

Prose of the World Saikat Majumdar,2013-01-08 Everyday life in the far outposts of empire can be static empty of the excitement of progress A pervading sense of banality and boredom are therefore common elements of the daily experience for people living on the colonial periphery Saikat Majumdar suggests that this impoverished affective experience of colonial modernity significantly shapes the innovative aesthetics of modernist fiction Prose of the World explores the global life of this narrative aesthetic from late colonial modernism to the present day focusing on a writer each from Ireland New Zealand South Africa and India Ranging from James Joyce s deflated epiphanies to Amit Chaudhuri s disavowal of the grand spectacle of postcolonial national allegories Majumdar foregrounds the banal as a key instinct of modern and contemporary fiction one that nevertheless remains submerged because of its antithetical relation to literature s intuitive function to engage or excite Majumdar asks us to rethink the assumption that banality merely indicates an aesthetic failure If narrative is traditionally enabled by the tremor velocity and excitement of the event the historical and affective lack implied by the banal produces a narrative force that is radically new precisely because it suspends the conventional impulses of narration

Global outlook on climate services in agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2021-09-30 Climate change and extreme weather events are heightening levels of acute food insecurity and food crises around the world As the world emerges from the COVID 19 pandemic and deals with other drivers of food security poverty and inequality the international community is calling for a climate resilient and sustainable recovery Supporting the shift away from disaster response toward preventative and anticipatory action is fundamental to address the growing challenges faced by agriculture and food systems Climate services highlight the role of science and technology in providing innovative solutions for risk reduction effective resilience policies and adaptation planning Underpinned by robust science and agrometeorological data climate services and digital advisories bring tailored climate information to agricultural producers and value chain actors But despite increasing evidence of the benefits of climate services there are still major gaps in their development worldwide This global assessment points to a significant gap in investment in climate services for the last mile the small scale farmers and most marginalized communities Bridging this gap and scaling climate services is essential if actionable information is to be communicated in an equitable and effective manner to users making sure no one is left behind The report presents the latest data on the state of climate services for agricultural users with surveys from 36 countries across all FAO regions The report s findings have major implications for institutional frameworks to effectively target investments in resilience preparedness and recovery Case studies highlight additional challenges opportunities and lessons learned from specific interventions across the climate services provision framework Despite many challenges climate services have demonstrable benefits to agriculture and food security by navigating agricultural producers around unpredictable and changing weather patterns The report presents a blueprint for targeted investments to ensure that finance is effectively allocated not only to enhance the production of climate services but also their provision engagement and application by agricultural communities
