Concepts of Personality Joseph M. Wepman, Ralph W. Heine, 2008-09-01 The psychologist who pursues an interest in personality is constantly faced by a dilemma He seeks to investigate what is to him the most intriguing and interesting subject the multifaceted operations of man in his natural environment The predicament lies in the discrepancy between the complexity and richness of man s subjective experience and the pallid analog of these experiences the psychologist is able to study effectively with the research procedures available to him In Concepts of Personality Joseph M Wepman and Ralph W Heine offer a comprehensive survey of classical and contemporary personality theory including a wide array of examples of these two trends If the psychologist holds to the premises of strict objectivity through controlled observations he finds himself driven to the periphery of the very problem he seeks to understand This is a place where the reliability of measurement and the validity and predictability of his instruments can often be specified but only at the cost of abandoning the goal of useful generality or of application to the individual in his ordinary life circumstances Concepts of Personality unlike most books on the subject is not limited to broad general theories It includes chapters on basic processes learning perception genetics and drive theory on the major analytical approaches of psychology and psychiatry on anthropological and sociological contributions and on the problems of measurement and assessment Each chapter is by an authority on the point of view expressed The editors introduction itself a major essay on the complex and divergent patterns and themes of contemporary views of personality carefully leads the reader through the information at hand The book as a whole constitutes an encyclopedic summary of the state of the science Joseph M Wepman was professor of psychology and surgery and chairman of the Interdepartmental Clinical and Counseling Psychology Training Program of the University of Chicago He is the author of Recovering from Aphasia and Aphasia and the Family Ralph W Heine was professor of psychiatry and psychology and chief clinical psychologist in the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago He is the author of The Student Physician as Psychotherapist and Psychotherapy

Training Success for U.S. Air Force Special Operations and Combat Support Specialties Maria C. Lytell, Sean Robson, David Schulker, Tracy C. McCausland, Miriam Matthews, Louis T. Mariano, Albert A. Robbert, 2018 The U S Air Force s special operations and combat support specialties in the enlisted force are among the highest in demand by the service yet have persistently high rates of attrition in their initial skills training which is called technical training in the Air Force These high demand high attrition HDHA specialties include Combat Control Explosive Ordnance Disposal Pararescue Survival Evasion Resistance and Escape Special Operations Weather Team and Tactical Air Control Party The Air Force has conducted or sponsored several efforts to address training attrition in these specialties over the past several years yet training attrition remains high The reasons for high training attrition are interrelated with size and quality of the recruiting pool utility of screening tools and training environment factors all playing a role This report addresses the broader challenges for implementing new approaches to HDHA specialty recruiting screening and development of Air Force candidates and takes a holistic approach to identifying methods and tools to ll gaps in current processes
