

EXPLORING BIOMES IN GORONGOSA NATIONAL PARK

ABOUT THIS WORKSHEET

This worksheet complements the Click and Learn "Gorongosa National Park Interactive Map" (<http://www.hhmi.org/biointeractive/gorongosa-national-park-interactive-map>), which shows physical aspects and characteristics of the past, present, and projected future Gorongosa National Park. In this activity, you will use the interactive map to evaluate predictions and explore biomes in the park.

BACKGROUND

Gorongosa National Park is a 1,570-square-mile protected area in Mozambique that is located at the southern end of the Great Rift Valley, a 3,700-mile valley that extends from Jordan in the north to Mozambique in the south. You can read about the park in the "Introduction" tab of the interactive map. For instructions on how to navigate the map, press the "Help" tab.

Earth's terrestrial ecosystems are grouped into 10 biomes. A biome is a region characterized by the dominant vegetation type resulting from the climate and geography of that region. A brief overview of biomes is provided in the Appendix at the end of this worksheet. Two terrestrial biomes are found within the boundaries of Gorongosa National Park. The first is in the main park territory, which covers the rift valley, and the second in Mount Gorongosa, which is northwest of the main park territory.

PROCEDURE

Follow the instructions below and answer the questions in the spaces provided.

Before using the Interactive Map: Examine the two climate graphs from different sites in Gorongosa National Park. The first graph shows the climate patterns in the main park territory, which does not include Mount Gorongosa, while the second graph shows climate patterns on Mount Gorongosa. The blue bars show the average precipitation and the red line shows the average temperature for each month.

Elementary Geography Charlotte Mason,2016-06-01 This little book is confined to very simple reading lessons upon the Form and Motions of the Earth the Points of the Compass the Meaning of a Map Definitions The shape and motions of the earth are fundamental ideas however difficult to grasp Geography should be learned chiefly from maps and the child should begin the study by learning the meaning of map and how to use it These subjects are well fitted to form an attractive introduction to the study of Geography some of them should awaken the delightful interest which attaches in a child s mind to that which is wonderful incomprehensible The Map lessons should lead to mechanical efforts equally delightful It is only when presented to the child for the first time in the form of stale knowledge and foregone conclusions that the facts taught in these lessons appear dry and repulsive to him An effort is made in the following pages to treat the subject with the sort of sympathetic interest and freshness which attracts children to a new study A short summary of the chief points in each reading lesson is given in the form of questions and answers Easy verses illustrative of the various subjects are introduced in order that the children may connect pleasant poetic fancies with the phenomena upon which Geography so much depends It is hoped that these reading lessons may afford intelligent teaching even in the hands of a young teacher The first ideas of Geography the lessons on Place which should make the child observant of local geography of the features of his own neighbourhood its heights and hollows and level lands its streams and ponds should be conveyed viva voce At this stage a class book cannot take the place of an intelligent teacher Children should go through the book twice and should after the second reading be able to answer any of the questions from memory Charlotte M Mason Exploring Creation with Biology Jay L.
