Tietz Clinical Guide to Laboratory Tests - E-Book Alan H. B. Wu, 2006-06-08 This new edition of Norbert Tietz's classic handbook presents information on common tests as well as rare and highly specialized tests and procedures including a summary of the utility and merit of each test. Biological variables that may affect test results are discussed and a focus is placed on reference ranges, diagnostic information, clinical interpretation of laboratory data, interferences, and specimen types. New and updated content has been added in all areas with over 100 new tests added. Tests are divided into 8 main sections and arranged alphabetically. Each test includes necessary information such as test name or disorder and method, specimens, and special requirements, reference ranges, chemical interferences, and in vivo effects, kinetic values, diagnostic information, factors influencing drug disposition, and clinical comments and remarks. The most current and relevant tests are included; outdated tests have been eliminated. Test index with extensive cross references and disease index provide the reader with an easy way to find necessary information. Four new sections in key areas: Preanalytical, Flow Cytometry, Pharmacogenomics, and Allergy make this edition current and useful. New editor Alan Wu, who specializes in Clinical Chemistry and Toxicology, brings a wealth of experience and expertise to this edition. The Molecular Diagnostics section has been greatly expanded due to the increased prevalence of new molecular techniques being used in laboratories. References are now found after each test rather than at the end of each section for easier access.

Light as an Energy Source and Information Carrier in Plant Physiology Robert C. Jennings, Giuseppe Zucchelli, Francesco Ghetti, Giuliano Colombetti, 2012-12-06 A NATO Advanced Study Institute on Light as Energy Source and Information Carrier in Plant Photo physiology was held at Volterra Italy from September 26 to October 6 1994 in order to consider the fundamental role that light plays in plant growth and development This book summarises the main lectures given at this meeting which concentrated on both photochemical energy conversion and signalling photosensing aspects Light harvesting and conversion into chemical energy in photosynthesis occurs at the level of chlorophyll carotenoid containing photosystems in plants Pigments are non covalently bound to a variety of polypeptides which serve as a specific scaffolding necessary to determine the energy coupling between pigments and thus allowing rapid excitation energy transfer from the antenna to the special reaction centre chlorophylls Data from transient time resolved spectroscopies in the femtosecond and picosecond domain together with model calculations suggest that this process occurs in the 20 100 picosecond time span The special structure of reaction centre complexes ensures rapid primary charge separation probably in the order of 1 3 picoseconds with subsequent charge stabilisation reactions proceeding in the hundreds of picoseconds range The recently resolved crystallographic structure of LHCII the principal antenna complex of plants allows precise determination of pigment pigment distances and thus permits calculation of approximate chlorophyll chlorophyll Forster hopping rates which are in good agreement with time resolved measurements
