TEACHER'S NOTES

UNIT 1

Technology in use

- Describing technical functions and applications
- Explaining how technology works
- Emphasising technical advantages
- Simplifying and illustrating technical explanations

Go to page 10 for essential background information and useful web links.

Refers to Student's Book pages

Before you begin ...

Hold a short introductory discussion to kick off the course as a whole. Use the following questions to cue the discussion. In larger groups, students could work in pairs, or in groups of three or four.

- What field of engineering are you in / would you like to go into?
Branches of engineering include: mechanical, electrical, civil, structural, process/ manufacturing, automotive, aeronautical, highway, coastal.
- How would you describe your branch of engineering to a non-specialist?
- What kind of work do you do / would you like to do within your field?
Possibilities include: design, technical management/supervision/project management, product/process development, research, investigation/analysis/trouble-shooting.
- In what kinds of situation do you / other people in your field need to use English at work?

To introduce Cambridge English for Engineering, invite students to look through the contents list and the book. Explain that the themes and situations, in terms of types of technology, companies and people, cover a wide range of different branches of engineering. Emphasise that although each example is specific, the language of each is useful to all types of engineer. Also explain that the main emphasis of the course will be on listening, speaking and using English actively in practice – through role plays and discussions, rather than learning lists of technical words.

Describing technical functions and applications

Language note

You will find the following vocabulary useful in this section.
use, use for ...,ing, use to (application), user, useful for ...,ing enable to, allow to, prevent from, ensure that

- Students complete the tasks in pairs. If they are struggling to come up with examples, you could suggest the following.
mobile phones – phone calls, text messages, exchanging photos and videos, voice recording electric drill/screwdriver handsets – for providing a turning force, drilling holes, putting in and removing screws, tightening and loosening nuts/bolts hammers – for generating impacts, for driving in nails, hitting punches and chisels, breaking things
