Crossing Over to Canaan Gloria Ladson-Billings, 2004-03-29 Gloria Ladson Billings provides a perceptive and interesting account of what is needed to prepare novice teachers to be successful with all students in our multicultural society. This book is a must reading for all those entering the profession of teaching today and for those who prepare them for this important work. Ken Zeichner, associate dean and professor of curriculum and instruction, School of Education, University of Wisconsin-Madison, says the multiple voices in Gloria Ladson Billings's book are compelling, provocative, and insightful; they provide a powerful insider perspective on what it really means to learn to teach all children well. Marilyn Cochran-Smith, professor of education and editor of Journal of Teacher Education, Boston College, School of Education, says Ladson Billings, one of the stellar researchers and most passionate advocates for social justice, has written yet another masterpiece. By weaving the novice teachers' voices, her personal teaching journey, and language rich in compelling research and inspiring metaphors, Ladson Billings has documented how new teachers transform schools and teach poor children of color. Jacqueline Jordan Irvine Candler, Professor of Urban Education, Emory University, Division of Educational Studies, says Ladson Billings has given us in highly readable form a brilliant vision of what teacher education might become. In Crossing Over to Canaan, we get a glimpse of how a carefully constructed teacher education program focused on teaching for social justice can produce excellent teaching even by young, middle-class teachers in training in diverse educational settings. Lisa D. Delpit, Benjamin E. Mays Professor of Educational Leadership, Georgia State University, says the author of the best-selling book The Dreamkeepers shows how teachers can succeed in diverse classrooms. Educating teachers to work well in multicultural classrooms has become an all-important educational priority in today's schools. In Crossing Over to Canaan, Gloria Ladson Billings details the real-life stories of eight novice teachers participating in an innovative teacher education program called Teach for Diversity. She details their struggles and triumphs as they confront challenges in the classroom and respond with innovative strategies that turn cultural strengths into academic assets. Through their experiences, Ladson Billings illustrates how good teachers can meet the challenges of teaching students from highly diverse backgrounds and find a way to cross over to Canaan. She offers a model of teaching that focuses on academic achievement, cultural competence, and socio-political consciousness. Drawing from her own experiences as a young African American teacher working in Philadelphia, she successfully weaves together narrative, observation, and scholarship to create an inspirational and practical book that will help teachers everywhere as they work to transcend labels and categories to support excellence among all students.

Condition or Process? Researching Race in Education Adrienne D. Dixon, Gloria J. Ladson-Billings, Cecilia E. Suarez, William T. Trent, James D. Anderson, 2021-01-18 The question of why we need to think about how we research race demands a conceptualization of race that captures both its social construction and its temporal evolution We need both an understanding of race and clarity about how we talk about it in our design and conduct of research and in how we interpret and apply it in our findings As a field we can use research on race and racism in education to help construct social change Our purpose with this volume is to underscore the persistence of the discriminatory actions processes and the normalization of the use of race and class conditions to justify the existing and growing disparity between the quality of life and opportunity for middle class and more affluent Whites and that for people of color and people of color who live in poverty As editors of this volume we wonder what more we could learn and understand about the process and condition of race if we dare to ask bold questions about race and racism and commit to methods and analyses that respect the experiences and knowledges of our research participants and partners

Undocumented Aviva Chomsky, 2014-05-13 A longtime immigration activist explores what it means to be an undocumented American revealing the ever shifting nature of status in the U S in this impassioned and well reported case for change New York Times In this illuminating work immigrant rights activist Aviva Chomsky shows how illegality and undocumentedness are concepts that were created to exclude and exploit With a focus on US policy she probes how people especially Mexican and Central Americans have been assigned this status and to what ends Blending history with human drama Chomsky explores what it means to be undocumented in a legal social economic and historical context The result is a powerful testament of the complex contradictory and ever shifting nature of status in America

White Teachers, Black Students Mack T. Hines, 2017-08-08 Can White teachers teach Black Students This is the provocative and pointed inquiry that drives the creation of White Teachers Black Students The twin purpose of this book is how can White teachers consistently teach and reach Black students Hines starts the book by framing these inquiries within the historical context of race whiteness and white people He then carefully draws a line from this context to the modern day white framing of White teachers actions towards African American students White teachers are challenged to disrupt this teaching identity for a more developed and diverse worldview regarding race From there Hines presents a framework for translating White racial awareness into the ultimate White racial actualization an affirmation of the ability to facilitate Black student achievement

Street Data Shane Safir, Jamila Dugan, 2021-02-12 Radically reimagine our ways of being learning and doing Education can be transformed if we eradicate our fixation on big data like standardized test scores as the supreme measure of equity and learning Instead of the focus being on fixing and filling academic gaps we must envision and rebuild the system from the student up with classrooms schools and systems built around students brilliance cultural wealth and intellectual potential Street data reminds us that what is measurable is not the same as what is valuable and that data can be humanizing liberatory and healing By breaking down street data fundamentals what it is how to gather it and how it can complement other forms of data to guide a school or district s equity journey Safir and Dugan offer an actionable framework for school transformation Written for educators and policymakers this book Offers fresh ideas and innovative tools to apply immediately Provides an asset based model to help educators look for what s right in our students and communities instead of seeking what s wrong Explores a different application of data from its capacity to help us diagnose root causes of inequity to its potential to transform learning and its power to reshape adult culture Now is the time to take an antiracist stance interrogate our assumptions about knowledge measurement and what really matters when it comes to educating young people
