Diplomatic Negotiation Paul Meerts, 2015 Diplomatic Negotiation is difficult to grasp both in practice and in theory Yet it is important to get to grips with this process as negotiations between states and in international organizations are the lifeblood of the international body politic The Charter of the United Nations for obvious reasons ranks negotiation as the foremost instrument in the peaceful settlement of inter state conflicts Scholars of international relations however are still searching for methodologies and theories to explain the outcomes of negotiations by the processes that produce them This monograph approaches the process of diplomatic negotiation from different angles while applying a multi faceted qualitative analysis of case studies from the past and present It is hoped that a better understanding of negotiation as one of the main tools of diplomacy will help to enhance the effectiveness of this process as an alternative to warfare Still negotiation is basically a struggle in the promotion and defence of state interests It is war by peaceful means The central proposition of this book is that negotiations between states can only be a viable replacement of the use of violence if they are conducted within a framework of international regimes that set the rules and procedures for negotiation behaviour and mitigate lack of trust International regimes may take the shape of international organizations which can force countries to live up to their agreements Diplomats and political leaders have come to recognize this as the evolution of diplomacy in the last 400 years testifies Diplomatic negotiation may be taken as a ceaseless series of attempts to bring more order to the international system The current demise of the negotiation processes in the Middle East thus demonstrates the failure of the international community to build overarching negotiation structures
