Recommendation (p. 266)	"We recommend performing early mobilization of adult ICU patients whenever feasible to reduce the incidence and duration of delirium (+1B)." (+1B = strong recommendation for intervention based on evidence of moderate strength)	Early mobilization requires coordination among many members of the ICU team. This recommendation reinforces the value of this intervention to those directly involved (eg, physical therapist, nurse, and respiratory therapist) and indirectly involved (eg, physician) in this intervention.
Supporting analysis (p. 287)	"These studies suggest that early and aggressive mobilization is unlikely to harm ICU patients, but may reduce the incidence and duration of delirium, shorten ICU and hospital LOS, and lower hospital costs."	The analysis explains the rationale for the recommended intervention and justifies secondary benefits.
Tools to facilitate implementation of the guideline—Pocket Card recommendations (p. 292)	"Patients should be awake and able to purposely follow commands in order to participate in their care unless a clinical indication for deeper sedation exists."	Early mobilization requires a system-wide shift in patient management. The physical therapist may use these recommendations to advocate for changes in patient management or to inform quality improvement initiatives.
	"Promote sleep in ICU patients early when feasible to reduce the incidence and duration of delirium, and to improve functional outcomes."
