Ships Bureau,1953 Barometer and Weather Guide Robert Fitzroy,2017-11-23 Excerpt from Barometer and Weather Guide Board of Trade 1859 Many persons have advocated placing barometers at exposed fishing villages and the Board of Trade has sanctioned the principle of some assistance by Government to a limited extent depending on the necessity of each case and other contingencies such as the care publicity and setting of the barometers It was thought advisable to substitute a few words on the scales of these instruments in place of those usually engraved which are not the most suitable and to compile brief and plain information respecting the use of weather glasses The following pages were prepared but only the first few were intended particularly for this purpose After writing these it was suggested that some remarks might Be added for the benefit of many persons especially young officers at sea and the suggestion was complied with yet not so as to diminish the portability of this compilation or increase its price These remarks derived from the combined observation study and personal experience of various individuals are in accordance generally with the results obtained by eminent philosophers About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Barometers and the measurement of atmospheric pressure Charles Frederick Marvin,1912 An Historical and Philosophical Account of the Barometer, Or Weather-glass Edward Saul,1730 The History and Use of the Barometer Lum Woodruff,1857 Barometers and the Measurement of Atmospheric Pressure Charles Frederick Marvin,1939 Barometers and the Measurement of Atmospheric Pressure Charles Frederick Marvin,1941 On the Use of the Barometer on Surveys and Reconnaissances Robert Stockton Williamson,2017-10-18 Excerpt from On the Use of the Barometer on Surveys and Reconnaissances Being a Compendium Without Plates of No 15 of the Professional Papers of the Corps of Engineers I may remark in the first place that whenever the read ings of the barometer are referred to in the following pages those of the barometer reduced to 320 Fahrenheit are meant In the barometric formula of Laplace and others a term has been introduced to take into account the effect of the ex pansion and contraction of the mercurial column by heat in order to reduce the readings to what they would have been had the temperature of the instrument been always at the freezing point But it is equally accurate and much more convenient to reduce each reading in the first place to the freezing point by the tables which have been jpre pared for the purpose By adopting this course the column so reduced when plotted shows the movements of a natural atmosphere and their peculiarities can be studied with advantage whereas the readings of the barometer not so reduced give so irregular a curve the movements being masked by the ever varying temperature of the instrument that it is scarcely possible to discover any law guiding them if such a law exists I also wish to point out that unless special mention is made to the contrary the formula used in the computations is the one found in Professional Papers of the Corps of Engineers No 15 only omitting the special correction for the moisture in the atmosphere It is a translation of the formula of Plantamour This formula differs from the one prepared by Guyot for the Smithsonian Institution which is in fact the formula of Laplace by a very small change in the barometric constant Plantamour adopts the number while Guyot gives This slight change causes the difference of altitude to be greater by the former formula than by the latter by a little less than four feet for each thousand feet of difference of altitude About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
