Commodification of Global Agrifood Systems and Agro-Ecology Yıldız Atasoy, 2017-05-18 This book explores the shifting relations of food provisioning in Turkey from a comparative global political economy perspective. It offers in-depth ethnographic analysis, interviews, and historical insights into the ambiguities and diversities that simultaneously affect the changing conditions of food and agriculture in Turkey. Specific issues examined include the commodification of land, food, and labour; the expansion and deepening of industrial standardization; the expansion of a supermarket model; and concomitant changes in, as well as the simultaneous co-existence of, traditional methods of production and marketing. Contrasting observations are drawn from diverse locales to provide examples of convergence, divergence, and cohabitation in relation to transnationally advocated industrial models. Commodification of Global Agrifood Systems and Agro Ecology employs a form of comparative perspective that allows the particular processes of restructuring of agrifood relations in Turkey to be simultaneously distinguished from yet related to changes taking place in global power dynamics. Yıldız Atasoy explores agrifood transformation in Turkey with a unique approach that considers a plurality of intertwined normative influences: ontological beliefs, cultural, religious, narratives, political struggles, and critical interpretive positions. Based on original research, the book treats changes in food provisioning as an analytical thread capable of uncovering how the normative acceptability of capitalized agriculture and techno-scientific innovation is entangled with processes of class formation, growing inter-capitalist competition, and Islamic politics. Such processes in turn frame income, wealth, generation, landscape, management, agro-ecological dynamics, and labour practices, as well as the taste and smell of place.

The Nature of Data Jenny Goldstein, Eric Nost, 2022-10 When we look at some of the most pressing issues in environmental politics today, it is hard to avoid data technologies. Big data, artificial intelligence, and data dashboards all promise revolutionary advances in the speed and scale at which governments, corporations, conservationists, and even individuals can respond to environmental challenges. By bringing together scholars from geography, anthropology, science, and technology studies, and ecology, The Nature of Data explores how the digital realm is a significant site in which environmental politics are waged. This collection, as a whole, makes the argument that we cannot fully understand the current conjuncture in critical global environmental politics without understanding the role of data platforms, devices, standards, and institutions. In particular, The Nature of Data addresses the contested practices of making and maintaining data infrastructure, the imaginaries produced by data infrastructures, the relations between state and civil society that data infrastructure reworks, and the conditions under which technology can further socio-ecological justice instead of re-entrenching state and capitalist power. This innovative volume presents some of the first research in this new but rapidly growing subfield that addresses the role of data infrastructures in critical environmental politics.

Securing Finance, Mobilizing Risk John Morris,2018-03-28 Drawing on the history of modern finance as well as the sociology of money and risk this book examines how cultural understandings of finance have contributed to the increased capitalization of the UK financial system following the Global Financial Crisis Providing both a geographically inflected analysis and re appraisal of the concept of performativity it demonstrates that financial risk management has a spatiality that helps to inform understandings and imaginaries of the risks associated with money and finance The book traces the development of understandings of risk at the Bank of England with an analysis that spans some 1 000 reports documents and speeches alongside elite interviews with past and present employees at the central bank The author argues that the Bank has moved from a relatively broad brush approach to the risks being managed in the financial sector to a greater preoccupation with the understanding and mapping of the mobilization of financial risk The study of financial practices from a critical social sciences and humanities perspective has grown rapidly since the Global Financial Crisis and this book will be of interest to multiple subject areas including IPE economic geography sociology of finance and critical security studies
