Rhetoric and Composition Steven Lynn, 2010-09-30 Rhetoric and composition is an academic discipline that informs all other fields in teaching students how to communicate their ideas and construct their arguments It has grown dramatically to become a cornerstone of many undergraduate courses and curricula and it is a particularly dynamic field for scholarly research This book offers an accessible introduction to teaching and studying rhetoric and composition By combining the history of rhetoric explorations of its underlying theories and a survey of current research with practical examples and advice Steven Lynn offers a solid foundation for further study in the field Readers will find useful information on how students have been taught to invent and organize materials to express themselves correctly and effectively and how the ancient study of memory and delivery illuminates discourse and pedagogy today This concise book thus provides a starting point for learning about the discipline that engages writing thinking and argument

Essays on Classical Rhetoric and Modern Discourse Robert J. Connors, Lisa S. Ede, Andrea A. Lunsford, 1984 Eighteen essays by leading scholars in English speech communication education and philosophy explore the vitality of the classical rhetorical tradition and its influence on both contemporary discourse studies and the teaching of writing Some of the essays investigate the rhetorical and historical issues Others show the bearing of classical rhetoric on contemporary problems in composition thus blending theory and practice Common to the varied approaches and viewpoints expressed in this volume is one central theme the 20th century revival of rhetoric entails a recovery of the classical tradition with its marriage of a rich and fully articulated theory with an equally efficacious practice A preface demonstrates the contribution of Edward P J Corbett to the 20th century revival and a last chapter includes a bibliography of his works

Dining in a Classical Context William J. Slater, 1991 An investigation of the role of the feast as a cultural focus for the classical world

Rhetoric Reclaimed Janet M. Atwill, 2009 Thoroughly embedded in postmodern theory this book offers a critique of traditional conceptions of the liberal arts exploring the challenges posed by cultural diversity to the aims and methods of a humanist education Janet M Atwill investigates a neglected tradition of rhetoric exemplified by Protagoras and Isocrates and preserved in Aristotle's Rhetoric This tradition was rooted in the ancient sophistic and platonic conceptions of techn or productive knowledge that appears both in literary texts from the seventh century B C E and in medical and technical treatises from the fifth century B C E Atwill examines these traditions together with sophistic and platonic conceptions and considers the commentaries on Aristotle's Rhetoric by E M Cope and William S J Grimaldi where the concepts of techn and productive knowledge disappear in the modern opposition between theory and practice Since models of knowledge are closely tied to models of subjectivity Atwill's examination of techn also explores the role of political economic and educational institutions in standardizing a specific model for subjectivity She argues that the liberal arts traditions largely eclipsed the social and political functions of rhetoric transforming it from an art of disrupting and reinventing lines of power to a discipline of producing a normative subject defined by virtue but modeled on a specific gender and class type
