Indiana George Sand

Indiana George Sand, 2000-03-01 The author's first novel based on her own experience. A romantic young woman is trapped in a cold marriage and finds a lover. Approaches to Teaching Sand's Indiana David A. Powell, Pratima Prasad, 2015-11-01 Indiana George Sand's first solo novel opens with the eponymous heroine brooding and bored in her husband's French countryside estate far from her native le Bourbon now Réunion. Written in 1832, the novel appeared during a period of French history marked by revolution and regime change, civil unrest, and labor concerns, and slave revolts and the abolitionist movement when women faced rigid social constraints and had limited rights within the institution of marriage. With this politically charged history serving as a backdrop for the novel, Sand brings together Romanticism, realism, and the idealism that would characterize her work, presenting what was deemed by her contemporaries a faithful and candid representation of nineteenth-century France. This volume gathers pedagogical essays that will enhance the teaching of Indiana and contribute to students' understanding and appreciation of the novel. The first part gives an overview of editions and translations of the novel and recommends useful background readings. Contributors to the second part present various approaches to the novel, focusing on four themes: modes of literary narration, gender and feminism, slavery and colonialism, and historical and political upheaval. Each essay offers a fresh perspective on Indiana, suited not only to courses on French Romanticism and realism but also to interdisciplinary discussions of French colonial history or law. Indiana George Sand, 2023-11-24 Indiana is the story's heroine, a young noblewoman descended from French colonial settlers from le Bourbon who lives in France. Indiana is married to an older ex-army officer named Colonel Delmare and suffers from the lack of passion in her life. Indiana does not love Delmare and searches for someone who will love her passionately. Her cousin Ralph is in love with her but she overlooks him and falls in love with their well-spoken neighbor Raymon de Ramière. Indiana escapes the house to faithfully present herself in Raymon's apartments in the middle of the night but they don't get along and Colonel Delmare takes Indiana to le Bourbon. Indiana returns to France on a perilous sea journey during the French Revolution of 1830 where she reconnects with Raymon but also with Ralph, which further complicates matters. The novel is an exploration of nineteenth-century female desire complicated by class constraints and by social codes about infidelity. Indiana George Sand, 1837 The Masterpieces of George Sand: Indiana George Sand, 1900 Indiana* George Sand, 2006 I was just going to do it, monsieur, but I saw a woman meet him. At that moment I said to myself: Perhaps it's monsieur and madame who have taken a fancy to walk a bit before daybreak, and I went back to bed. But this morning I heard Lelievre talking about a thief whose tracks he had seen in the park, and I said to myself: There's something under this. Indiana George Sand, 1870 George Sand, Indiana, Mauprat* Janet Hiddleston, 2000 Indiana* George Sand, 2016-08-03 On a certain cool rainy evening in autumn in a small chateau in Brie, three pensive individuals were gravely occupied in watching the wood burn on the hearth and the hands of the clock move slowly around the dial Two of these silent guests seemed to give way unreservedly to the vague ennui that weighed upon them but the third gave signs of open rebellion he fidgeted about on his seat stifled half audibly divers melancholy yawns and tapped the snapping sticks with tongs with a manifest intention of resisting the common enemy This person who was much older than the other two was the master of the house Colonel Delmare an old warrior on half pay once a very handsome man now over corpulent with a bald head gray moustache and awe inspiring eye an excellent master before whom everybody trembled wife servants horses and dogs At last he left his chair evidently vexed because he did not know how to break the silence and began to walk heavily up and down the whole length of the salon without laying aside for an instant the rigidity which characterizes all the movements of an ex soldier resting his weight on his loins and turning the whole body at once with the unfailing self satisfaction peculiar to the man of show and the model officer
