Evidence-Based Health Informatics E. Ammenwerth,M. Rigby,2016-05-20 Health IT is a major field of investment in support of healthcare delivery but patients and professionals tend to have systems imposed upon them

by organizational policy or as a result of even higher policy decision And while many health IT systems are efficient and welcomed by their users and are essential to modern healthcare this is not the case for all Unfortunately some systems cause user frustration and result in inefficiency in use and a few are known to have inconvenienced patients or even caused harm including the occasional death This book seeks to answer the need for better understanding of the importance of robust evidence to support health IT and to optimize investment in it to give insight into health IT evidence and evaluation as its primary source and to promote health informatics as an underpinning science demonstrating the same ethical rigour and proof of net benefit as is expected of other applied health technologies The book is divided into three parts the context and importance of evidence based health informatics methodological considerations of health IT evaluation as the source of evidence and ensuring the relevance and application of evidence A number of cross cutting themes emerge in each of these sections This book seeks to inform the reader on the wide range of knowledge available and the appropriateness of its use according to the circumstances It is aimed at a wide readership and will be of interest to health policymakers clinicians health informaticians the academic health informatics community members of patient and policy organisations and members of the vendor industry

Islamic Education in Indonesia and Malaysia Azmil Tayeb,2018-03-13 Despite their close geographic and cultural ties Indonesia and Malaysia have dramatically different Islamic education with that in Indonesia being relatively decentralized and discursively diverse while that in Malaysia is centralized and discursively restricted The book explores the nature of the Islamic education systems in Indonesia and Malaysia and the different approaches taken by these states in managing these systems The book argues that the post colonial state in Malaysia has been more successful in centralising its control over Islamic education and more concerned with promoting a restrictive orthodoxy compared to the post colonial state in Indonesia This is due to three factors the ideological makeup of the state institutions that oversee Islamic education patterns of societal Islamisation that have prompted different responses from the states and control of resources by the central government that influences centre periphery relations Informed by the theoretical works of state in society relations and historical institutionalism this book shows that the three aforementioned factors can help a state to minimize influence from the society and exert its dominance in this case by centralising control over Islamic education Specifically they help us understand the markedly different landscapes of Islamic education in Malaysia and Indonesia It will be of interest to academics in the field of Southeast Asian Studies Asian Education and Comparative Education Antibody-Drug Conjugates Kenneth J.
