Miss Behave Malebo Sephodi, 2017-06-06 Upon encountering historian Laurel Thatcher Ulrich's quote well behaved women seldom make history Malebo Sephodi knew that she was tired of everyone else having a say on who and what she should be Appropriating this quote Malebo boldly renounces societal expectations placed on her as a black woman and shares her journey towards misbehavior According to Malebo it is the norm for a black woman to live in a society that prescribes what it means to be a well behaved woman Acting like this prescribed woman equals good behavior But what happens when a black woman decides to live her own life and becomes her own form of who she wants to be She is often seen as misbehaving Miss Behave challenges society's deep seated beliefs about what it means to be an obedient woman In this book Malebo tracks her journey on a path towards achieving total autonomy and self-determinism Miss Behave will challenge rattle and occasionally cause you to scream yassss yassss yassss at various intervals

Tangible Things Laurel Thatcher Ulrich, Ivan Gaskell, Sara Schechner, Sarah Anne Carter, Samantha van Gerbig, 2015-02-06 In a world obsessed with the virtual tangible things are once again making history Tangible Things invites readers to look closely at the things around them ordinary things like the food on their plate and extraordinary things like the transit of planets across the sky It argues that almost any material thing when examined closely can be a link between present and past The authors of this book pulled an astonishing array of materials out of storage from a pencil manufactured by Henry David Thoreau to a bracelet made from iridescent beetles in a wide range of Harvard University collections to mount an innovative exhibition alongside a new general education course The exhibition challenged the rigid distinctions between history anthropology science and the arts It showed that object centered inquiry inevitably leads to a questioning of categories within and beyond history Tangible Things is both an introduction to the range and scope of Harvard's remarkable collections and an invitation to reassess collections of all sorts including those that reside in the bottom drawers or attics of people's houses It interrogates the nineteenth century categories that still divide art museums from science museums and historical collections from anthropological displays and that assume history is made only from written documents Although it builds on a larger discussion among specialists it makes its arguments through case studies hoping to simultaneously entertain and inspire The twenty case studies take us from the Galapagos Islands to India and from a third century Egyptian papyrus fragment to a board game based on the twentieth century comic strip Dagwood and Blondie A companion website catalogs the more than two hundred objects in the original exhibition and suggests ways in which the principles outlined in the book might change the way people understand the tangible things that surround them
