Communities in Action National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on Community-Based Solutions to Promote Health Equity in the United States, 2017-04-27 In the United States some populations suffer from far greater disparities in health than others Those disparities are caused not only by fundamental differences in health status across segments of the population but also because of inequities in factors that impact health status so called determinants of health Only part of an individual's health status depends on his or her behavior and choice community wide problems like poverty unemployment poor education inadequate housing poor public transportation interpersonal violence and decaying neighborhoods also contribute to health inequities as well as the historic and ongoing interplay of structures policies and norms that shape lives When these factors are not optimal in a community it does not mean they are intractable such inequities can be mitigated by social policies that can shape health in powerful ways Communities in Action Pathways to Health Equity seeks to delineate the causes of and the solutions to health inequities in the United States This report focuses on what communities can do to promote health equity what actions are needed by the many and varied stakeholders that are part of communities or support them as well as the root causes and structural barriers that need to be overcome Model Rules of Professional Conduct American Bar Association. and reinforced neighborhood segregation William Julius Wilson Exploding the myth of de facto segregation arising from private prejudice or the unintended consequences of economic forces Rothstein describes how the American government systematically imposed residential segregation with undisguised racial zoning public housing that purposefully segregated previously mixed communities subsidies for builders to create whites only suburbs tax exemptions for institutions that enforced segregation and support for violent resistance to African Americans in white neighborhoods A groundbreaking virtually indispensable study that has already transformed our understanding of twentieth century urban history Chicago Daily Observer The Color of Law forces us to face the obligation to remedy our unconstitutional past The Negro

Desegregation Gary Orfield, Susan E. Eaton, 1996 Discusses the reversal of desegregation in public schools Race for Profit Keeanga-Yamahtta Taylor, 2019-09-03 LONGLISTED FOR THE 2019 NATIONAL BOOK AWARD FINALIST 2020 PULITZER PRIZE IN HISTORY By the late 1960s and early 1970s reeling from a wave of urban uprisings politicians finally worked to end the practice of redlining Reasoning that the turbulence could be calmed by turning Black city dwellers into homeowners they passed the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and set about establishing policies to induce mortgage lenders and the real estate industry to treat Black homebuyers equally The disaster that ensued revealed that racist exclusion had not been eradicated but rather transmuted into a new phenomenon of predatory inclusion Race for Profit uncovers how exploitative real estate practices continued well after housing discrimination was banned The same racist structures and individuals remained intact after redlining's end and close relationships between regulators and the industry created incentives to ignore improprieties Meanwhile new policies meant to encourage low income homeownership created new methods to exploit Black homeowners The federal government guaranteed urban mortgages in an attempt to overcome resistance to lending to Black buyers as if unprofitability rather than racism was the cause of housing segregation Bankers investors and real estate agents took advantage of the perverse incentives targeting the Black women most likely to fail to keep up their home payments and slip into foreclosure multiplying their profits As a result by the end of the 1970s the nation's first programs to encourage Black homeownership ended with tens of thousands of foreclosures in Black communities across the country The push to uplift Black homeownership had descended into a goldmine for realtors and mortgage lenders and a ready made cudgel for the champions of deregulation to wield against government intervention of any kind Narrating

the story of a sea change in housing policy and its dire impact on African Americans Race for Profit reveals how the urban core was transformed into a new frontier of cynical extraction

Why Are All the Black Kids Sitting Together in the Cafeteria? Beverly Daniel Tatum, 2017-09-05 The classic New York Times bestselling book on the psychology of racism that shows us how to talk about race in America Walk into any racially mixed high school and you will see Black White and Latino youth clustered in their own groups Is this self segregation a problem to address or a coping strategy How can we get past our reluctance to discuss racial issues Beverly Daniel Tatum a renowned authority on the psychology of racism argues that straight talk about our racial identities is essential if we are serious about communicating across racial and ethnic divides and pursuing antiracism These topics have only become more urgent as the national conversation about race is increasingly acrimonious This fully revised edition is essential reading for anyone seeking to understand dynamics of race and racial inequality in America

Ending Discrimination Against People with Mental and Substance Use Disorders. National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Behavioral, Cognitive, and Sensory Sciences, Committee on the Science of Changing Behavioral Health Social Norms, 2016-09-03. Estimates indicate that as many as 1 in 4 Americans will experience a mental health problem or will misuse alcohol or drugs in their lifetimes. These disorders are among the most highly stigmatized health conditions in the United States and they remain barriers to full participation in society in areas as basic as education, housing, and employment. Improving the lives of people with mental health and substance abuse disorders has been a priority in the United States for more than 50 years. The Community Mental Health Act of 1963 is considered a major turning point in America's efforts to improve behavioral healthcare. It ushered in an era of optimism and hope and laid the groundwork for the consumer movement and new models of recovery. The consumer movement gave voice to people with mental and substance use disorders and brought their perspectives and experience into national discussions about mental health. However, over the same 50-year period, positive change in American public attitudes and beliefs about mental and substance use disorders has lagged behind these advances. Stigma is a complex social phenomenon based on a relationship between an attribute and a stereotype that assigns undesirable labels, qualities, and behaviors to a person with that attribute. Labeled individuals are then socially devalued, which leads to inequality and discrimination. This report contributes to national efforts to understand and change attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors that can lead to stigma and discrimination. Changing stigma in a lasting way will require coordinated efforts which are based on the best possible evidence supported at the national level with multiyear funding and planned and implemented by an effective coalition of representative stakeholders.

Ending Discrimination Against People with Mental and Substance Use Disorders: The Evidence for Stigma Change explores stigma and discrimination faced by individuals with mental or substance use disorders and recommends effective strategies for reducing stigma and encouraging people to seek treatment and other supportive services. It offers a set of conclusions and recommendations about successful stigma change strategies and the research needed to inform and evaluate these efforts in the United States.

A Guide for Using Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry in the Classroom Michael H. Levin, Mildred D. Taylor, 1994 Teaching literature unit based on the popular children's story Roll of thunder hear my cry

American Apartheid Douglas S. Massey, Nancy A. Denton, 1993 This powerful and disturbing book clearly links persistent poverty among blacks in the United States to the unparalleled degree of deliberate segregation they experience in American cities American Apartheid shows how the black ghetto was created by whites during the first half of the twentieth century in order to isolate growing urban black populations It goes on to show that despite the Fair Housing Act of 1968 segregation is perpetuated today through an interlocking set of individual actions institutional practices and governmental policies In some urban areas the degree of black segregation is so intense and occurs in so many dimensions simultaneously that it amounts to hypersegregation The authors demonstrate that this systematic segregation of African Americans leads inexorably to the creation of underclass communities during periods of economic downturn Under conditions of extreme segregation any increase in the overall rate of black poverty yields a marked increase in the geographic concentration of indigence and the deterioration of social and economic conditions in black communities As ghetto residents adapt to this increasingly harsh environment under a climate of racial isolation they evolve attitudes behaviors and practices that further marginalize their neighborhoods and undermine their chances of success in mainstream American society This book is a sober challenge to those who argue that race is of declining significance in the United States today

Race and Schooling in the South, 1880-1950 Robert A. Margo, 2007-12-01 The interrelation among race schooling and labor market opportunities of American blacks can help us make sense of the relatively poor economic status of blacks in contemporary society The role of these factors in slavery and the economic consequences for blacks has received much attention but the post slave experience of blacks in the American economy has been less studied To deepen our understanding of that experience Robert A Margo mines a wealth of newly available census data and school district records By analyzing evidence concerning occupational discrimination educational expenditures taxation and teachers salaries he clarifies the costs for blacks of post slave segregation A concise lucid account of the bases of racial inequality in the South between Reconstruction and the Civil Rights era Deserves the careful attention of anyone concerned with historical and contemporary race stratification Kathryn M Neckerman Contemporary Sociology Margo has produced an excellent study which can serve as a model for aspiring cliometricians To describe it as required reading would fail to indicate just how important indeed indispensable the book will be to scholars interested in racial economic differences past or present Robert Higgs Journal of Economic Literature Margo shows that history is important in understanding present domestic problems his study has significant implications for understanding post 1950s black economic development Joe M Richardson Journal of American History

Stamped from the Beginning Ibram X. Kendi, 2016-04-12 The National Book Award winning history of how racist ideas were created spread and deeply rooted in American society Some Americans insist that we're living in a post racial society But racist thought is not just alive and well in America it is more sophisticated and more insidious than ever And as award winning historian Ibram X Kendi argues racist ideas have a long and lingering history one in which nearly every great American thinker is complicit In this deeply researched and fast moving narrative Kendi chronicles the entire story of anti black racist ideas and their staggering power over the course of American history He uses the life stories of five major American intellectuals to drive this history Puritan minister Cotton Mather Thomas Jefferson abolitionist William Lloyd Garrison W E B Du Bois and legendary activist Angela Davis As Kendi shows racist ideas did not arise from ignorance or hatred They were created to justify and rationalize deeply entrenched discriminatory policies and the nation s racial inequities In shedding light on this history Stamped from the Beginning offers us the tools we need to expose racist thinking In the process he gives us reason to hope Going North Janice N. Harrington, Jerome Lagarrigue, 2004-09-08 An African American family becomes a new kind of pioneer Leaving behind Big Mama loving relatives and the familiar red soil and cotton fields of Alabama Jessie and her family are going north to Nebraska They are pioneers searching for a better life one with decent schools and jobs But traveling through the segregated South is difficult for an African American family in the 1960s With most public places reserved for whites only where will they stop to get gas and food Lyrical free verse and evocative paintings capture the rhythm of the road and a young girl s longing as she wonders Will I like it there Will I like the North Unequal Treatment Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Understanding and Eliminating Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care, 2009-02-06 Racial and ethnic disparities in health care are known to reflect access to care and other issues that arise from differing socioeconomic conditions There is however increasing evidence that even after such differences are accounted for race and ethnicity remain significant predictors of the quality of health care received In Unequal Treatment a panel of experts documents this evidence and explores how persons of color experience the health care environment The book examines how disparities in treatment may arise in health care systems and looks at aspects of the clinical encounter that may contribute to such disparities Patients and providers attitudes expectations and behavior are analyzed How to intervene Unequal Treatment offers recommendations for improvements in medical care financing allocation of care availability of language translation community based care and other arenas The committee highlights the potential of cross cultural education to improve provider patient communication and offers a detailed look at how to integrate cross cultural learning within the health professions The book concludes with recommendations for data collection and research initiatives Unequal Treatment will be vitally important to health care policymakers administrators providers educators and students as well as advocates for people of color
