Creative Writing in Four Genres + Practice of Creative Writing David Starkey, Heather Sellers, 2009-03-01

Teaching Writing Creatively David Starkey, 1998 Teaching Writing Creatively represents a challenge to conventional notions of genre. It seeks to break down the artificial antiquated barriers between creative and academic writing making the writing classroom experience a more imaginative one. Teaching Writing Creatively features many of the most respected names in composition instructors with long successful histories of providing teachers with functional yet inventive methods of teaching writing. The collection begins with articles that assert that all good writing must be in some important sense creative. These contributors offer accounts of the transformation of their composition classrooms, essays that demonstrate that good student writing is only marginally about genre, and a critique of the creative writing workshop as a model for the composition class. Part II offers a variety of ways to approach the teaching of writing as a creative endeavor. It includes articles on helping students better understand their own writing processes and suggestions on alternative composing strategies and their classroom applications. The contributors to the final section offer a variety of new approaches to creative writing that can be successfully applied to expository writing courses as well. Student centered and process oriented. Teaching Writing Creatively is a book writing instructors will find immediately useful, particularly composition instructors who feel hemmed in by the conventional expectations of writing courses and creative writing instructors looking to take advantage of the latest innovations in composition studies.

If You Want to Write Brenda Ueland, 2013-05-20 Brenda Ueland was a journalist, editor, freelance writer, and teacher of writing. In If You Want to Write, a book about art, independence, and spirit, she shares her philosophies on writing and life in general. Ueland firmly believed that anyone can write, that everyone is talented, original, and has something important to say. In this book, she explains how to find that spark that will make you a great writer. Carl Sandburg called this book the best book ever written about how to write. Join the millions of others who've found inspiration and unlocked their own talent.

Creative Writing: Four Genres in Brief David Starkey, 2012-12-21 How can students with widely varied levels of literary experience learn to write poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, and drama over the course of only one semester? In Creative Writing: Four Genres in Brief, David Starkey offers some solutions to the challenges of teaching the introductory creative writing course. 1. concise, accessible instruction in the basics of writing poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, and drama. 2. short models of literature to analyze, admire, and emulate. 3. inventive and imaginative assignments that inspire and motivate.

Bending Genre Margot Singer, Nicole Walker, 2013-03-14 Ever since the term creative nonfiction first came into widespread use, memoirists and journalists, essayists and fiction writers have faced off over where the border between fact and fiction lies. This debate over ethics, however, has sidelined important questions of literary form. Bending Genre does not ask where the boundaries between genres should be drawn, but what happens when you push the line. Written for writers and students of creative writing, this collection brings together perspectives from today's leading writers of creative nonfiction, including Michael Martone, Brenda Miller, Ander Monson, and David Shields. Each writer's innovative essay probes our notions of genre and investigates how creative nonfiction is shaped, modeling the forms of writing being discussed. Like creative nonfiction itself, Bending Genre is an exciting hybrid that breaks new ground.
