

Chapter 10 Cell Growth and Division Section Review 10-2

Reviewing Key Concepts

Short Answer On the lines provided, answer the following questions.

1. What are the four phases of the cell cycle?

2. What happens when the cell copies its chromosomes?

3. What happens during cytokinesis?

Classifying On the line provided, label each event with one of the four phases of mitosis in which it occurs. A phase may be used more than once.

- _____ 4. The chromosomes line up across the middle of the cell.
- _____ 5. Chromosomes become visible.
- _____ 6. Centrioles separate.
- _____ 7. Sister chromatids separate into individual chromosomes.
- _____ 8. Two new nuclear envelopes form.
- _____ 9. The nucleolus disappears and the nuclear envelope breaks down.
- _____ 10. Each chromosome is connected to a spindle fiber.
- _____ 11. The individual chromosomes move apart.

Reviewing Key Skills

12. Applying Concepts Explain why the terms cell division and mitosis should not be used interchangeably.

13. Calculating If a particular type of cell completes one cell cycle in 75 minutes, and you start with one cell, how many cells would be present after 7.5 hours?

14. Inferring Many plant cells have more than two complete sets of chromosomes in each cell. Explain how this might occur.

15. Comparing and Contrasting How does an animal cell differ from a plant cell during cell division?

Democracy and Education John Dewey, 1916 Renewal of Life by Transmission The most notable distinction between living and inanimate things is that the former maintain themselves by renewal A stone when struck resists If its resistance is greater than the force of the blow struck it remains outwardly unchanged Otherwise it is shattered into smaller bits Never does the stone attempt to react in such a way that it may maintain itself against the blow much less so as to render the blow a contributing factor to its own continued action While the living thing may easily be crushed by superior force it none the less tries to turn the energies which act upon it into means of its own further existence If it cannot do so it does not just split into smaller pieces at least in the higher forms of life but loses its identity as a living thing As long as it endures it struggles to use surrounding energies in its own behalf It uses light air moisture and the material of soil To say that it uses them is to say that it turns them into means of its own conservation As long as it is growing the energy it expends in thus turning the environment to account is more than compensated for by the return it gets it grows Understanding the word control in this sense it may be said that a living being is one that subjugates and controls for its own continued activity the energies that would otherwise use it up Life is a self renewing process through action upon the environment
