Microalgae for Fuel Production: Can Green Goo Solve Our Energy and Climate Problems?

Scientists and investors are promoting the potential of some of the smallest, oiliest critters on Earth as a solution to our energy problems. Although the humble organisms look like green goo, some species of microalgae are over 50 percent oil. Scientists say microalgae are the most efficient organisms at converting sunlight to energy. In fact, they beat other oil crops for production per acre, hands down.

Gallons of Oil per Acre per Year
Corn	20
Soybeans	50
Safflower	83
Sunflower	102
Rapeseed	115
Oil palm	640
Microalgae	10,000

Seventy percent of this oil can be recovered by pressing the algae; over 90 percent can be recovered by solvent extraction. The resulting oil can be used for heating, for electricity generation, or for making other fuels, like biodiesel. After the oil is removed, the remaining material can be used as animal feed or soil amendment. The Germans are even looking into using it for construction material. "In this way, we sequester that carbon indefinitely," said Dr. Klaus Mueller. Some scientists are bubbling emissions from coal-burning power plants through algae-filled tanks to remove CO<sub>2</sub>.

Proponents claim that microalgae can be used to capture nutrients from animal feedlot waste lagoons and sewage treatment plants. Because they grow only in the top inch of water, the algae might even be grown in rooftop pools someday. But are microalgae really all they're cracked up to be? Like other monoculture crops, they may be susceptible to widespread damage from disease.
