The Atlas of African-American History and Politics: From the Slave Trade to Modern Times Arwin D Smallwood,Jeffrey M Elliot,1998 THE ATLAS OF AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY AND POLITICS consists of more than 150 originally produced maps which trace the African experience throughout the world and in America The volume traces the complete history of African Americans and their lives employing artfully conceived maps and enhanced by sharply written historic narratives graphically reinforcing the facts This work is appropriate for courses in African American history and American history where instructors would like to integrate African American history into their curricula

Self-Taught Heather Andrea Williams, 2009-11-20 In this previously untold story of African American self education Heather Andrea Williams moves across time to examine African Americans relationship to literacy during slavery during the Civil War and in the first decades of freedom Self Taught traces the historical antecedents to freedpeople s intense desire to become literate and demonstrates how the visions of enslaved African Americans emerged into plans and action once slavery ended Enslaved people Williams contends placed great value in the practical power of literacy whether it was to enable them to read the Bible for themselves or to keep informed of the abolition movement and later the progress of the Civil War Some slaves devised creative and subversive means to acquire literacy and when slavery ended they became the first teachers of other freedpeople Soon overwhelmed by the demands for education they called on northern missionaries to come to their aid Williams argues that by teaching building schools supporting teachers resisting violence and claiming education as a civil right African Americans transformed the face of education in the South to the great benefit of both black and white southerners
