

Chapter 14 Active Reading Guide

From Gene to Protein

This is going to be a very long journey, but it is crucial to your understanding of biology. Work on this chapter a single concept at a time, and expect to spend at least 6 hours to truly master the material. To give you an idea of the depth and time required, it took over 5 hours to write this Reading Guide! You will need even longer to complete it and learn the information. Good luck, and take your time.

Overview

1. What is gene expression?

The process by which DNA directs the synthesis of proteins, includes two stages: transcription and translation

Section 1

2. What situation did Archibald Garrod suggest caused "inborn errors of metabolism"?

Garrod suggested that genes dictate phenotypes through enzymes that catalyze specific chemical reactions. A person's inability to make a particular enzyme. Genes dictate phenotypes through enzymes that catalyze specific chemical reactions in the cell

3. Describe one example Garrod used to illustrate his hypothesis.

Hereditary condition called alkaptonuria where urine is black because it contains the chemical alkapton which darkens upon exposure to air. Most people have an enzyme that metabolizes alkapton, whereas people with alkaptonuria have inherited an inability to make that enzyme.

-linking genes to enzymes require understanding that cells synthesize and degrade molecules in a series of steps, a metabolic pathway

4. State the hypothesis formulated by George Beadle while studying eye color mutations in Drosophila.

-each of the various mutations of affecting eye color blocks pigment synthesis at a specific step by preventing the production of the enzyme

-showed that genes control the production of enzymes and that the enzymes are related to traits

5. What strategy did Beadle and Tatum adopt to test this hypothesis?

They bombarded Neurospora with x-rays and then looked among the survivors for mutants that differed in their nutritional needs from the wild-type mold

6. Which organism did Beadle and Tatum use in their research? Wild-type Neurospora How did this organism's nutritional requirements facilitate this research?

It can survive in the lab on a moist support medium called agar, mixed with only inorganic salts, glucose, and the vitamin biotin
