

The Mystery of the Bones

Objectives

- Understand what a forensic anthropologist does
- Understand the different processes
- Understand how age, sex, height, etc. are determined
- Understand how forensic anthropology is applied in finding missing persons
- Understand the different types of skeletons

Lesson 1: Forensic and Fieldwork

In this lesson, you will be learning about the different types of forensic anthropology and what bones (or sometimes teeth) are used to determine the identity of the person whose remains were found. You will also learn about the different types of skeletons and how they are used in forensic anthropology.

Forensic Anthropology

Forensic anthropology is the study of human remains that have been discovered in a forensic context.

There are two main types of forensic anthropology:

1. Forensic Anthropology - This is the study of human remains that have been discovered in a forensic context. It involves the identification of the remains, the determination of the cause of death, and the determination of the time of death.
