Deep Space Telecommunications Systems Engineering Joseph H. Yuen, 2013-04-17 The challenge of communication in planetary exploration has been unusual The guidance and control of spacecraft depend on reliable communication Scientific data returned to earth are irreplaceable or replaceable only at the cost of another mission In deep space communications propagation is good relative to terrestrial communications and there is an opportunity to press toward the mathematical limit of microwave communication Yet the limits must be approached warily with reliability as well as channel capacity in mind Further the effects of small changes in the earth s atmosphere and the interplanetary plasma have small but important effects on propagation time and hence on the measurement of distance Advances are almost incredible Communication capability measured in 18 bits per second at a given range rose by a factor of 10 in the 19 years from Explorer I of 1958 to Voyager of 1977 This improvement was attained through ingenious design based on the sort of penetrating analysis set forth in this book by engineers who took part in a highly detailed and amazingly successful program Careful observation and analysis have told us much about limitations on the accurate measurement of distance It is not easy to get busy people to tell others clearly and in detail how they have solved important problems Joseph H Yuen and the other contributors to this book are to be commended for the time and care they have devoted to explicating one vital aspect of a great adventure of mankind

Cochrane Handbook for Systematic Reviews of Interventions Julian P. T. Higgins, Sally Green, 2008-11-24 Healthcare providers consumers researchers and policy makers are inundated with unmanageable amounts of information including evidence from healthcare research It has become impossible for all to have the time and resources to find appraise and interpret this evidence and incorporate it into healthcare decisions Cochrane Reviews respond to this challenge by identifying appraising and synthesizing research based evidence and presenting it in a standardized format published in The Cochrane Library www.thecochranelibrary.com The Cochrane Handbook for Systematic Reviews of Interventions contains methodological guidance for the preparation and maintenance of Cochrane intervention reviews Written in a clear and accessible format it is the essential manual for all those preparing maintaining and reading Cochrane reviews Many of the principles and methods described here are appropriate for systematic reviews applied to other types of research and to systematic reviews of interventions undertaken by others It is hoped therefore that this book will be invaluable to all those who want to understand the role of systematic reviews critically appraise published reviews or perform reviews themselves

The ARML Power Contest Thomas Kilkelly, 2015-01-02 The ARML American Regions Math League Power Contest is truly a unique competition in which a team of students is judged on its ability to discover a pattern express the pattern in precise mathematical language and provide a logical proof of its conjectures Just as a team of students can be self directed to solve each problem set a teacher math team coach or math circle leader could take these ideas and questions and lead students into problem solving and mathematical discovery This book contains thirty seven interesting and engaging problem sets from the ARML Power Contests from 1994 to 2013 They are generally extensions of the high school mathematics classroom and often connect two remote areas of mathematics Additionally they provide meaningful problem situations for both the novice and the veteran mathlete Thomas Kilkelly has been a mathematics teacher for forty three years During that time he has been awarded several teaching honors and has coached many math teams to state and national championships He has always been an advocate for more discovery integration and problem solving in the mathematics and global public health practitioners Managing Modern Healthcare Mike Bresnen, Damian Hodgson, Simon Bailey, Paula Hyde, John Hassard, 2017-02-10 Until now research has given us only a limited understanding of how managers actually make sense of and apply management knowledge how networks of interaction amongst managers help or hinder processes of knowledge diffusion and the sharing of best practice and how these processes are all influenced both by the organisations in which managers act and by the professional communities of practice they belong to Managing Modern Healthcare fills these important gaps in our understanding by drawing upon an in depth study of management networks and practice in three healthcare organisations in the UK It draws from the primary research a number of important and grounded lessons about how management networks develop and influence the spread of management knowledge and practice how management training and development relates to the needs of managers facing challenging conditions and how those conditions are themselves shaping the nature of management in healthcare This book reveals how managers in practice are responding to the many contemporary challenges facing healthcare and the NHS in particular and how they are able or not to effectively exploit sources of knowledge learning and best practice through the networks of practice they engage in to improve healthcare delivery and healthcare organisational performance Managing Modern Healthcare makes a number of important theoretical contributions as well as practical recommendations The theoretical and empirical contributions the book makes relate to wider work on networks and networking management knowledge situated learning communities of practice professionalization professional identity and healthcare management more generally The practical contribution comes in the form of recommendations for healthcare management practitioners and policy makers that are intended to impact upon and help enhance healthcare management delivery and performance The Euclidean Matching Problem Gabriele Sicuro, 2016-10-24 This thesis discusses the random Euclidean bipartite matching problem i e the matching problem between two different sets of points randomly generated on the Euclidean domain The presence of both randomness and Euclidean constraints makes the study of the average properties of the solution highly relevant The thesis reviews a number of known results about both matching problems and Euclidean matching problems It then goes on to provide a complete and general solution for the one dimensional problem in the case of convex cost functionals and moreover discusses a potential approach to the average optimal matching cost and its finite size corrections in the quadratic case The correlation functions of the optimal matching map in the thermodynamical limit are also analyzed Lastly using a functional approach the thesis puts forward a general recipe for the computation of the correlation function of the optimal matching in any dimension and in a generic domain The Chemical Reactor from Laboratory to Industrial Plant Elio Santacesaria, Riccardo Tesser, 2018-11-04 This graduate textbook written by a former lecturer addresses industrial chemical reaction topics focusing on the commercial scale exploitation of chemical reactions It introduces students to the concepts behind the successful design and operation of chemical reactors with an emphasis on qualitative arguments simple design methods graphical procedures and frequent comparison of capabilities of the major reactor types It starts by discussing simple ideas before moving on to more advanced concepts with the support of numerous case studies Many simple and advanced exercises are present in each chapter and the detailed MATLAB code for their solution is available to the reader as supplementary material on Springer website It is written for MSc chemical engineering students and novice researchers working in industrial laboratories
