Row planting teff in Ethiopia Vandercasteelen, Joachim, Dereje, Mekdim, Minten, Bart, Taffesse, Alemayehu Seyoum, 2016-07-01 Improved technologies are increasingly promoted to farmers in sub Saharan African countries to address low agricultural productivity in their staple crops There is however a lack of evidence on how adoption affects farmers labor use and profitability at the farm level as well as the importance gender roles play all essential drivers for the successful up scaling of the use of the improved technologies This paper analyses the labor and profitability impact of the recently introduced row planting technology in teff production in Ethiopia Based on agronomic evidence in experimental settings the Government of Ethiopia has focused extension efforts on promoting the widespread uptake of row planting to address low teff yields replacing the traditional broadcasting method of plant teff Using an innovative Randomized Controlled Trial set up we show that the implementation of row planting at the farm level significantly increases total labor use but not teff yields relative to broadcast planting resulting in a substantial drop in labor productivity when adopting row planting Moreover the implementation of row planting has important consequences for inter and intra household labor allocation with relatively more use of non family labor The adoption of row planting was further found not to be profitable for farmers in the first year of the promotion campaign seemingly explaining the limited success in up scaling the adoption of the technology by farmers in the second year of the program Food Security Governance Nora McKeon,2014-12-17 This book fills a gap in the literature by setting food security in the context of evolving global food governance Today s food system generates hunger alongside of food waste burgeoning health problems massive greenhouse gas emissions Applying food system analysis to review how the international community has addressed food issues since World War II this book proceeds to explain how actors link up in corporate global food chains and in the local food systems that feed most of the world s population It unpacks relevant paradigms from productivism to food sovereignty and highlights the significance of adopting a rights based approach to solving food problems The author describes how communities around the world are protecting their access to resources and building better ways of producing and accessing food and discusses the reformed Committee on World Food Security a uniquely inclusive global policy forum and how it could be supportive of efforts from the base The book concludes by identifying terrains on which work is needed to adapt the practice of the democratic public sphere and accountable governance to a global dimension and extend its authority to the world of markets and corporations This book will be of interest to students of food security global governance development studies and critical security studies in general Secondary towns, agricultural prices, and intensification: Evidence from Ethiopia Vandecastelen, Joachim,Tamru, Seneshaw,Minten, Bart,Swinnen, Johan,2017-03-01 Urbanization is happening fast in the developing world and especially so in sub Saharan Africa where growth rates of cities are among the highest in the world While cities and in particular secondary towns where most of the urban population in sub Saharan Africa resides affect agricultural practices in their rural hinterlands this relationship is not well understood To fill this gap we develop a conceptual model to analyze how farmers proximity to cities of different sizes affects agricultural prices and intensification of farming We then test these predictions using large scale survey data from producers of teff a major staple crop in Ethiopia relying on unique data on transport costs and road networks and implementing an array of econometric models We find that agricultural price behavior and intensification is determined by proximity to a city and the type of city While proximity to cities has a strong positive effect on agricultural output prices and on uptake of modern inputs and yields on farms the effects on prices and intensification measures are lower for farmers in the rural hinterlands of secondary towns compared to primate cities

National gender profile of agriculture and rural livelihoods Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2023-08-07 In Angola around 80 percent of farmers are smallholders so the agriculture sector still represents an important source of income employment and food for a large part of the production Women constitute the majority of the labour force in agriculture and are critical agents of change in the fight against rural poverty hunger and malnutrition In Angola 4 8 million women live in rural areas and the 38 3 percent of the country s women have agriculture as their main activity However inequalities in access to land agricultural inputs training and knowledge limit their contribution to agricultural productivity and economic development At community level women have low participation in decision making Angola has made consistent efforts to address existing gender inequalities in the agriculture and labour sectors given the important role that women play in agriculture and the country s food systems Although gender mainstreaming in agriculture and rural development sectors is in its early stages in recent years progress has been made to benefit women more consistently This assessment revealed that gender inequalities remain widespread and particularly evident in rural areas despite the progress made in establishing a legal and policy framework for advancing women s rights and gender equality

The cocoa coast: The board-managed cocoa sector in Ghana Kolavalli, Shashidhara,Vigneri, Marcella,2018-02-07 After almost 20 years of declining cocoa production Ghana has been able in the last decade to increase the share of export prices going to producers and more than double production Contrary to Washington Consensus prescriptions these accomplishments were achieved through reforms that did not include market liberalization In The Cocoa Coast The Board Managed Cocoa Sector in Ghana the authors identify factors that have contributed to Ghana s success in cocoa production These include the accountability of the government for the sector s performance cocoa sector performance being seen as a key dimension of economic management its interest in maintaining the ability to raise funds globally as a reliable supplier of high quality cocoa and its policy of retaining a portion of producer revenues to promote the adoption of yield enhancing measures The authors also suggest how Ghana can improve the efficiency of the cocoa sector through measures such as increased transparency and curtailing services that would be better provided by the private sector The Cocoa Coast will be a valuable resource for policy makers development specialists and others interested in different national development paths

Optimizing the Delivery of Multiple Ecosystem Goods and Services in Agricultural Systems Maria A. Tsiafouli, Evangelia G. Drakou, Alberto Orgiazzi, Katarina Hedlund, Karl Ritz, 2017-10-18 Agricultural land is subjected to a variety of societal pressures as demands for food animal feed and biomass production increase with an added requirement to simultaneously maintain natural areas and mitigate climatic and environmental impacts The biotic elements of agricultural systems interact with the abiotic environment to generate a number of ecosystem functions that offer services benefiting humans across many scales of time and space The intensification of agriculture generally reduces biodiversity including that within soil and impacts negatively upon a number of regulating and supporting ecosystem services There is a global need toward achieving sustainable agricultural systems as also highlighted in the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals There is hence a need for management regimes that enhance both agricultural production and the associated provision of multiple ecosystem services The articles of this Research Topic enhance our knowledge of how management practices applied to agricultural systems affect the delivery of multiple ecosystem services and how trade offs between provisioning regulating and supporting services can be handled both above and below ground They also show the diversity of topics that need to be considered within the framework of ecosystem services delivered by agricultural systems from knowledge on basic concepts and newly proposed frameworks to a focus on specific ecosystem types such as grasslands and high nature value farmlands pollinator habitats and soil habitats This diversity of topics indicates the need for broader scope research integrated with targeted scientific research to promote sustainable agricultural practices and to ensure food security

Mountain agriculture: Opportunities for harnessing Zero Hunger in Asia Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-08-07 Mountain food security and nutrition are core issues that can contribute positively to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals but paradoxically are often ignored in Zero Hunger and poverty reduction related agenda Under the overall leadership of Jos Graziano da Silva the Former Director General of FAO sustainable mountain agriculture development is set as a priority in Asia and the Pacific to effectively address this issue and assist Member Countries in tackling food insecurity and malnutrition in mountain regions This comprehensive publication is the first of its kind that focuses on the multidimensional status challenges opportunities and solutions of sustainable mountain agriculture development for Zero Hunger in Asia This publication is building on the International Workshop and Regional Expert Consultation on Mountain Agriculture Development and Food Security and Nutrition Governance held by FAO RAP and UIR in November 2018 Beijing in collaboration with partners from national governments national agriculture institutes universities international organizations and international research institutes The publication provides analysis with evidence on how mountain agriculture could contribute to satisfying all four dimensions of food security to transform food systems to be nutrition sensitive climate resilient economically viable and locally adaptable From this food system perspective the priority should be given to focus on specialty mountain product identification e g Future Smart Food production processing marketing and consumption which would effectively expose the potential of mountain agriculture to contribute to Zero Hunger and poverty reduction In addition eight Asian country case studies not only identify context specific challenges within biophysical technical policy socio economic and institutional dimensions

Land, the State and the Unfinished Decolonisation Project in Africa Chitonge, Horman, Mine, Yoichi, 2019-06-25 This book focuses on the work of one of the leading African scholars on the land question and agrarian transformation in Africa Sam Moyo It offers a critical discussion in conversation with Sam Moyo of the land question and the response of African states Since independence African states have been trying to address the colonial legacy on land policy and governance After six decades of formulating and implementing land reforms most countries have not succeeded in decolonising approaches to land policy and the administrative framework The book brings together the broader debates on the implications of decolonisation of Africa's land policy Through case studies from several African countries the book offers an empirical analysis on land reforms and the emerging land relations and how these affect land allocation and use including agricultural production Most of the chapters discuss how the unresolved land question in post colonial Africa impacts on agricultural production and rural development broadly The failure to decolonise colonial land policy and the imported tenure systems has left post colonial African states dancing to two tunes resulting in schizophrenic land and agrarian policies The book demonstrates that the failure by African states to reconcile imported and indigenous land tenure systems and practices is evident in the deliberate denigration of customary tenure It is also evident in the rising land inequality and the neglect of the agricultural sector the small scale and subsistence sub sectors in particular
