Cowhey, Jonathan D. Aronson, 2017-06-30 Innovation in information and production technologies is creating benefits and disruption profoundly altering how firms and markets perform Digital DNA provides an in depth examination of the opportunities and challenges in the fast changing global economy and lays out strategies that countries and the international community should embrace to promote robust growth while addressing the risks of this digital upheaval. Wisely guiding the transformation in innovation is a major challenge for global prosperity that affects everyone. Peter Cowhey and Jonathan Aronson demonstrate how the digital revolution is transforming the business models of high tech industries but also of traditional agricultural manufacturing and service sector firms. The rapidity of change combines with the uncertainty of winners and losers to create political and economic tensions over how to adapt public policies to new technological and market surprises. The logic of the policy trade offs confronting society and the political economy of practical decision making is explored through three developments: The rise of Cloud Computing and trans border data flows; international collaboration to reduce cybersecurity risks and the consequences of different national standards of digital privacy protection. The most appropriate global strategies will recognize that a significant diversity in individual national policies is inevitable. However, because digital technologies operate across national boundaries, there is also a need for a common international baseline of policy fundamentals to facilitate quasi convergence of these national policies. Cowhey and Aronson's examination of these dynamic developments lead to a measured proposal for authoritative soft rules that requires governments to create policies that achieve certain objectives but leaves the specific design to national discretion. These rules should embrace mechanisms to work with expert multi stakeholder organizations to facilitate the implementation of formal agreements, enhance their political legitimacy and technical expertise, and build flexible learning into the governance regime. The result will be greater convergence of national policies and the space for the new innovation system to flourish.

Social assessment for projects in China is an important emerging field. This collection of essays from authors whose formative work has influenced the policies that shape practice in development affected communities locates recent Chinese experience of the development of social assessment practices including in displacement and resettlement in a historical and comparative perspective. Contributors, social scientists employed by international development banks, national government agencies and sub contracting groups, examine projects from a practitioner's perspective. Real life experiences are presented as case specific praxis, theoretically informed insight and pragmatic lessons learned grounded in the history of this field of development practice. They reflect on work where economic determinism reigns supreme yet project failure or success often hinges upon sociopolitical and cultural factors.

A Fair Deal on Talent - Fostering Just Migration Governance
Bertelsmann Stiftung, 2015-05-12

If well managed migration generates benefits for migrants, their countries of origin and the countries they settle in. For migrants, it can help them expand their skill sets and improve their standard of living. For destination countries, it can alleviate demographic pressures and foster cultural diversity. For origin countries, it can bring benefits associated with remittances and knowledge transfers. However, in reality, these benefits are rarely achieved as migration policy failures frequently lead to suboptimal or even negative outcomes. Realizing the full potential of migration therefore demands we foster a paradigm shift toward the fair management of migration. Fair migration is driven by the desire to achieve a triple win for migrants destination countries and origin countries In addition to outlining the key challenges and opportunities associated with fair migration this volume examines the good practices of a variety of countries and institutions which highlight aspects of fair migration The volume concludes with policy recommendations for effective and fair migration policymaking at the national and international levels As a conceptual and empirical contribution to both national and international debates on managing migration this volume aims to enrich discussions among policymakers business leaders civil society actors and scholars alike

Global Securities Litigation and Enforcement Pierre-Henri Conac, Martin Gelter, 2019-01-03 Global Securities Litigation and Enforcement provides a clear and exhaustive description of the national regime for the enforcement of securities legislation in cases of misrepresentation on financial markets It covers 29 jurisdictions worldwide some of them are important although their law is not well known It will be an invaluable resource for academics and students of securities litigation as well as for lawyers policy makers and regulators The book also provides a comprehensive contribution debate on whether public or private enforcement is preferable in terms of development of securities markets It will appeal to those interested in the legal origins theory and in comparative securities law and shows that the classification of jurisdictions within legal families does not explain the differences in legal regimes While US securities law often serves as a model for international convergence some of its elements such as securities class actions have not been adopted worldwide

Are Non-Euro Area EU Countries Importing Low Inflation from the Euro Area? Mr.Plamen Iossifov,Jiri Podpiera,2014-10-22 The synchronized disinflation across Europe since end 2011 raises the question of whether non euro area EU countries are affected by the undershooting of the euro area inflation target To shed light on this issue we estimate an open economy New Keynesian Phillips curve in which we control for imported inflation Regression results suggest that falling food and energy prices have been the main disinflationary driver But low core inflation in the euro area has also had a clear and significant impact Countries with more rigid exchange rate regimes and higher share of foreign value added in domestic demand have been more affected The scope for monetary response to low inflation in non euro area EU countries depends on concerns about financial stability and unanchoring of inflationary expectations as well as on exchange rate regime and capital flows dynamics

Civil Society Organizations and the Global Response to HIV/AIDS Julia Smith,2016-11-03 Why has the response to HIV AIDS been unique How did civil society organizations gain access to global decision making forums to demand exceptional attention and resources for HIV AIDS This book seeks to answer these questions among others through a critical international relations approach that enquires into the role of civil society in global health governance It documents how civil society forged the initial response to HIV AIDS within a rights based paradigm and built international networks It analyses why civil society was able to gain the right to participate in global health institutions and assesses what influence civil society representatives have within these institutions particularly focusing on outcomes related to institutional legitimacy and downward accountability It then discusses changes in the broader political economy of global health and how HIV AIDS organizations have or have not adapted to these shifts Finally the book tells the story of the many struggles civil society organizations have engaged in to advance a rights based response to HIV AIDS the transformations achieved and the resistance experienced

Capitalism in Crisis? Alexandra Vasileva-Dienes, 2021-05-11 Worrysome recent economic downturns in Brazil Russia and even China occurred against the backdrop of domestic issues pertaining to patrimonialism corruption and informality Some economies of the European periphery also suffered from similar domestic issues and plunged into recession due to economic crisis and austerity policies implemented in its wake This book theorises and analyses the evolving nature of capitalism in emerging economies the BRICs and the European periphery in the face of pressures from globalisation and economic crises The volume seeks to make sense of these crises and their impact using the framework of comparative capitalism while testing its applicability beyond the advanced industrialised countries for which it was developed The authors draw on late Uwe Becker s open qualitative approach systematically integrating the state into the analysis and paying close attention to the role of changing ideas character of international integration leadership and informality The contributors analyse different responses to crises by the BRICs and countries of the Southern European periphery as well as respective dimensions of state business interaction The findings contribute to theorising varieties of capitalism beyond the OECD world and to developing a dynamic theory of capitalist change in the face of pressures from globalisation and economic crises The chapters in this book were originally work and show how migration policies general welfare and long term care policies including the cash for care schemes as well as cultural differences in values in the UK and Norway set the context for how migrant care workers can realise their individual life projects Through viewing migrants as individuals who actively construct their lives within the options and conditions they are given at any time they bring to the discussion an awareness of what might be called a new type of migrant one who is neither a victim of the divide between the global north and the global south nor someone leaving family behind but individuals using care work as a part of their own life project of potential self improvement
