Understanding Peace Michael Allen Fox,2013-11-12 Understanding Peace A Comprehensive Introduction fills the need for an original contemporary examination of peace that is challenging informative and empowering This well researched fully documented and highly accessible textbook moves beyond fixation on war to highlight the human capacity for nonviolent cooperation in everyday life and in conflict situations After deconstructing numerous ideas about war and explaining its heavy costs to humans animals and the environment discussion turns to evidence for the existence of peaceful societies Further topics include the role of nonviolence in history the nature of violence and aggression and the theory and practice of nonviolence The book offers two new moral arguments against war and concludes by defining peace carefully from different angles and then describing conditions for creating a culture of peace Understanding Peace brings a fresh philosophical perspective to discussions of peace and also addresses down to earth issues about effecting constructive change in a complex world The particular strength of Understanding Peace lies in its commitment to reflecting on and integrating material from many fields of knowledge This approach will appeal to a diverse audience of students and scholars in peace studies philosophy and the social sciences as well as to general interest readers

The Challenge of Human Diversity DeWight R. Middleton,2010-04-28 Middletons fair uncluttered synthesis of a wide ranging topic continues to offer inspiration for thinking about what it means to be different fromand similar toOthers Brief ethnographic excerpts are interwoven to demonstrate the hold that culture has on us Such firsthand experiences reported by anthropologists reveal the challenging and sometimes humorous situations that can arise when we attempt to understand Othersand when they do the same with us Heralded by Anthropology Today Middleton by making the sensory and intellectual challenge of culture shock so central to his pedagogic strategy has found common ground that should unite all schools of cultural anthropology The work brims with valuable insights that broaden possibilities to achieve rewarding human interaction whether in our own neighborhood or across the globe Arguably one of the best contemporary treatments of cultural diversity available the latest edition includes expanded discussions of applied anthropology and ethics

Explorations in Diversity Sharon K. Anderson,Valerie A. Middleton,2017-12-11 Every person comes to know and understand their life from their own perspective As a result it is often difficult and sometimes unbelievable to realize that others whom one may or may not know might also experience daily life in a vastly different way Explorations in Diversity offers readers the opportunity to step into the lives of diverse others and experience their lives through their eyes Some readers may find themselves struggling to comprehend or even believe the experiences this text s authors share or where they fit within each narrative However each account in this text ultimately aims to open minds hearts and mouths in ways that push each of us toward a better understanding of our own privileged statuses so that we can use who we are what we say and what we do to make our society more accepting and inclusive of all our diverse representations

Posthuman Blackness and the Black Female Imagination Kristen Lillvis,2017-09-01 Posthuman Blackness and the Black Female Imagination examines the future oriented visions of black subjectivity in works by contemporary black women writers filmmakers and musicians including Toni Morrison Octavia Butler Julie Dash and Janelle Mon e In this innovative study Kristen Lillvis supplements historically situated conceptions of blackness with imaginative projections of black futures This theoretical approach allows her to acknowledge the importance of history without positing a purely historical origin for black identities The authors considered in this book set their stories in the past yet use their characters particularly women characters to show how the potential inherent in the future can inspire black authority and resistance Lillvis introduces the term posthuman blackness to describe the empowered subjectivities black women and men develop through their simultaneous existence within past present and future temporalities This project draws on posthuman theory an area of study that examines the disrupted unities between biology and technology the self and the outer world and most important for this project history and potentiality in its readings of a variety of imaginative works including works of historical fiction such as Gayl Jones s Corregidora and Morrison s Beloved Reading neo slave narratives through posthuman theory reveals black identity and culture as temporally flexible based in the potential of what is to come and the history of what has occurred

Alien Constructions Patricia Melzer, 2010-01-01 An incisive critical work that looks at Octavia Butler's writing the movies of the Matrix and Alien series and more through a feminist lens. Feminist thinkers and writers are increasingly recognizing science fiction's potential to shatter patriarchal and heterosexual norms while the creators of science fiction are bringing new depth and complexity to the genre by engaging with feminist theories and politics. This book maps the intersection of feminism and science fiction through close readings of science fiction literature by Octavia E. Butler, Richard Calder, and Melissa Scott and the movies The Matrix and the Alien series. Patricia Melzer analyzes how these authors and films represent debates and concepts in three areas of feminist thought: identity and difference, feminist critiques of science and technology, and the relationship among gender, identity, body, and desire, including the new gender politics of queer desires, transgender, and intersexed bodies and identities. She demonstrates that key political elements shape these debates, including global capitalism and exploitative class relations within a growing international system, the impact of computer, industrial, and medical technologies on women's lives and reproductive rights, and posthuman embodiment as expressed through biotechnologies, the body-machine interface, and the commodification of desire. Melzer's investigation makes it clear that feminist writings and readings of science fiction are part of a feminist critique of existing power relations, and that the alien constructions—cyborgs, clones, androids, aliens, and hybrids that populate postmodern science fiction—are as potentially empowering as they are threatening.

The Bioregional Imagination Tom Lynch, Cheryll Glotfelty, Karla Armbruster, 2012 Bioregionalism is an innovative way of thinking about place and planet from an ecological perspective. Although bioregional ideas occur regularly in ecocritical writing, until now no systematic effort has been made to outline the principles of bioregional literary criticism and to use it as a way to read, write, understand, and teach literature. The twenty-four original essays here are written by an outstanding selection of international scholars. The range of bioregions covered is global and includes such diverse places as British Columbia's Meldrum Creek and Italy's Po River Valley, the Arctic, and the Outback. There are even forays into cyberspace and outer space. In their comprehensive introduction, the editors map the terrain of the bioregional movement, including its history and potential to inspire and invigorate place-based and environmental literary criticism. Responding to bioregional tenets, this volume is divided into four sections. The essays in the Reinhabiting section narrate experiments in living in place and restoring damaged environments. The Rereading essays practice bioregional literary criticism both by examining texts with strong ties to bioregional paradigms and by opening other, less obvious texts to bioregional analysis. In Reimagining, the essays push bioregionalism to evolve by expanding its corpus of texts, coupling its perspectives with other approaches, or challenging its core constructs. Essays in the Renewal section address bioregional pedagogy, beginning with local habitat studies and concluding with musings about the Internet. In response to the environmental crisis, we must reimagine our relationship to the places we inhabit. This volume shows how literature and literary studies are fundamental tools to such a reimagining.

Exotics and Erotics DeWight R. Middleton, 2002 In the current fast-paced information age, implicit and explicit messages relating to sex and sexuality abound. But sex and sexuality often are misconstrued and misunderstood by those who perceive them through the narrow lens of their own place and time. Middleton's fundamentally anthropological treatment explores universal human sexuality in conjunction with its local manifestations in specific cultural contexts. He distributes many case studies throughout to illustrate the exploration of such topics as the body patterns of sexuality, sexual behavior, romantic passion, marriage, and kinship, among others. This lively, authoritative text fills unrealized gaps in knowledge by taking readers to new realms in understanding themselves and others.

Investing in Cultural Diversity and Intercultural Dialogue Unesco,2009-01-01 This report analyses all aspects of cultural diversity which has emerged as a key concern of the international community in recent decades and maps out new approaches to monitoring and shaping the changes that are taking place It highlights in particular the interrelated challenges of cultural diversity and intercultural dialogue and the way in which strong homogenizing forces are matched by persistent diversifying trends The report proposes a series of ten policy oriented recommendations to the attention of States intergovernmental and non governmental organizations international and regional bodies national institutions and the private sector on how to invest in cultural diversity Emphasizing the importance of cultural diversity in different areas languages education communication and new media development and creativity and the marketplace based on data and examples collected from around the world the report is also intended for the general public It proposes a coherent vision of cultural diversity and clarifies how far from being a threat it can become beneficial to the action of the international community
