Computational Economics David A. Kendrick, P. Ruben Mercado, Hans M. Amman, 2011-10-23 The ability to conceptualize an economic problem verbally to formulate it as a mathematical model and then represent the mathematics in software so that the model can be solved on a computer is a crucial skill for economists Computational Economics contains well known models and some brand new ones designed to help students move from verbal to mathematical to computational representations in economic modeling The authors focus however is not just on solving the models but also on developing the ability to modify them to reflect one's interest and point of view The result is a book that enables students to be creative in developing models that are relevant to the economic problems of their times Unlike other computational economics textbooks this book is organized around economic topics among them macroeconomics microeconomics and finance The authors employ various software systems including MATLAB Mathematica GAMS the nonlinear programming solver in Excel and the database systems in Access to enable students to use the most advantageous system The book progresses from relatively simple models to more complex ones and includes appendices on the ins and outs of running each program The book is intended for use by advanced undergraduates and professional economists and even as a first exposure to computational economics by graduate students Organized by economic topics Progresses from simple to more complex models Includes instructions on numerous software systems Encourages customization and creativity

WHO Expert Consultation on Rabies World Health Organization,2013 Although there is debate about the estimated health burden of rabies the estimates of direct mortality and the DALYs due to rabies are among the highest of the neglected tropical diseases Poor surveillance underreporting in many developing countries frequent misdiagnosis of rabies and an absence of coordination among all the sectors involved are likely to lead to underestimation of the scale of the disease It is clear however that rabies disproportionately affects poor rural communities and particularly children Most of the expenditure for post exposure prophylaxis is borne by those who can least afford it As a result of growing dog and human populations the burden of human deaths from rabies and the economic costs will continue to escalate in the absence of concerted efforts and investment for control Since the first WHO Expert Consultation on Rabies in 2004 WHO and its network of collaborating centres on rabies specialized national institutions members of the WHO Expert Advisory Panel on Rabies and partners such as the Gates Foundation the Global Alliance for Rabies Control and the Partnership for Rabies Prevention have been advocating the feasibility of rabies elimination regionally and globally and promoting research into sustainable cost effective strategies Those joint efforts have begun to break the cycle of rabies neglect and rabies is becoming recognized as a priority for investment This Consultation concluded that human dog transmitted rabies is readily amenable to control regional elimination in the medium term and even global elimination in the long term A resolution on major neglected tropical diseases including rabies prepared for submission to the World Health Assembly in May 2013 aims at securing Member States commitment to the control elimination or eradication of these diseases Endorsement of the resolution would open the door for exciting advances in rabies prevention and control
