Metal Matrix Composites in Industry Alexander Evans, Christopher San Marchi, Andreas Mortensen, 2013-11-27 Metal matrix composites are making tangible inroads into the real world of engineering They are used in engineering components such as brake rotors aircraft parts combustion engines and heat sinks for electronic systems Yet outside a relatively limited circle of specialists these materials are mostly unknown Designers do not as a rule think of using these materials in part because access to information is difficult as these materials have not really entered engineering handbooks Metal Matrix Composites in Industry is thus useful to engineers who wish to gain introductory knowledge of these materials and who want to know where to find them Additionally it provides researchers and academics with a survey of current industrial activity in this area of technology

Launch! Advertising and Promotion in Real Time Michael Solomon, 2009 Launch Advertising and Promotion is written for advertising and promotion courses taught to students in the business school and journalism mass communication students This textbook is the first of its kind to teach advertising concepts by reverse engineering a real advertising campaign from beginning to end In April 2007 SS K an innovative New York City communications agency launched the first ever branding campaign for msnbc com with the tag A Fuller Spectrum of News Launch follows that campaign from initial agency pitch through roll out of print and media assets to post campaign analysis Throughout it exposes readers to the theory and concepts of advertising and promotion and the personalities and decisions that drove this campaign The book takes a rare look behind the curtain even letting you see some of the paths not chosen by the agency and client Students get a realistic sense of how theory plays out in practice and get a flavor for the exciting field of advertising and promotion And they consistently learn the perspectives of both the advertising agency where many journalism and communications students will work and the client where many marketing majors will work This is a unique book with a unique perspective by a unique author team and you won't find this kind of insight in any other text on the market We think you're going to love it This textbook has been used in classes at Ball State University Emerson College Florida Institute of Technology Grand Valley State University Johnson County Community College Manchester Business School McLennan Community College Michigan State University North Hennepin Community College Pierce College Rochester Institute of Technology Saint Louis University Salem State College South Dakota State University Texas State University Texas Tech University University of New Hampshire University of North Carolina University of Notre Dame University of South Florida Virginia Tech Western Kentucky University

Messages, Signs, and Meanings Marcel Danesi, 2004 Messages Signs and Meanings can be used directly in introductory courses in semiotics communications media or culture studies Additionally it can be used as a complementary or supplementary text in courses dealing with cognate areas of investigation psychology mythology education literary studies anthropology linguistics The text builds upon what readers already know intuitively about signs and then leads them to think critically about the world in which they live a world saturated with images of all kinds that a basic knowledge of semiotics can help filter and deconstruct The text also provides opportunities for readers to do hands on semiotics through the exercises and questions for discussion that accompany each chapter Biographical sketches of the major figures in the field are also included as is a convenient glossary of technical terms The overall plan of the book is to illustrate how message making and meaning making can be studied from the specific vantage point of the discipline of semiotics This third edition also includes updated discussions of information technology throughout focusing especially on how meanings are now negotiated through such channels as websites chat rooms and instant messages Jacket

Vehicular Engine Design Kevin Hoag,2007-02-05 The mechanical engineering curriculum in most universities includes at least one elective course on the subject of reciprocating piston engines The majority of these courses today emphasize the application of thermodynamics to engine efficiency performance combustion and emissions There are several very good textbooks that support education in these aspects of engine development However in most companies engaged in engine development there are far more engineers working in the areas of design and mechanical development University studies should include opportunities that prepare engineers desiring to work in these aspects of engine development as well My colleagues and I have undertaken the development of a series of graduate courses in engine design and mechanical development In doing so it becomes quickly apparent that no suitable text book exists in support of such courses This book was written in the hopes of beginning to address the need for an engineering based introductory text in engine design and mechanical development It is of necessity an overview Its focus is limited to reciprocating piston internal combustion engines both diesel and spark ignition engines Emphasis is specifically on automobile engines although much of the discussion applies to larger and smaller engines as well A further intent of this book is to provide a concise reference volume on engine design and mechanical development processes for engineers serving the engine industry It is intended to provide basic information and most of the chapters include recent references to guide more in depth study
