Socrates' Children Trudy Govier,1997-08-06 How do Humans Think How should we think Almost all of philosophy and a great deal else depends in large part on the answers that we provide to such questions Yet they are almost impossible to deal with in isolation notions about nature of thought are almost bound to connect with metaphysical notions about where ideas come from with notions about appropriate arenas for certainty doubt and belief and hence with moral and religious ideas The Western tradition of thinking about thinking takes shape with Socrates among the other important strands covered in this book are Descartes recipe for discovering truth through systematic doubt Hume s notion that all our ideas are copies of sense impressions Wollstonecraft s introduction of the perspective of gender into such questions and Wittgenstein s claim that much of the traditional terrain of Western philosophy should be thought of as the proper domain only of linguistic assertion possessing no content beyond the words With each philosopher and school of thought dealt with Govier shows how ideas about thinking connect to the other elements of the particular philosophy and brings to life the social and intellectual context that the ideas spring from Socrates Children is thus not only an investigation of notions of thinking and knowing in Western culture it is a selective general history of much of Western philosophy from a unique and fascinating perspective
