Economy—Energy—Environment Simulation
K. Uno, 2002-05-31
In the policy arena as well as in the academic world a new challenge is having to deal with the global community. We are increasingly aware that the world is linked through economy energy environment interactions. We are increasingly aware at the same time that the emergence of the global community does not imply an integrated harmonious world rather it is a community where co tries regions of different interests and values face each other directly. Global governance has to be achieved through actions of national governments under different motives and constraints. We need to have an analytical tool that is capable of producing a global picture yet with detailed country resolution. If the world is a better place now compared to 100 years ago in terms of p capita income this is due to the industrialization that continued throughout the 20th century. We entered the 21st century knowing that the human aspiration that translates into ever increasing production may not be tenable in the long run. Sustainability of the global community is at stake. In contrast to inc mental decision making through the market mechanism that should lead to some optimal state under some assumptions such as perfect knowledge smooth movement of resources no externalities and so forth we need to have an a lytical tool to provide us with details of the future state of the world.

Image: An Integrated Model to Assess the Greenhouse Effect
J. Rotmans, 2012-12-06
This book is the result of a research project entitled Reference function for Global Air Pollution CO₂ initiated by RIVM. It deals with the description 2 of a computer simulation model of the greenhouse effect. This model IMAGE tries to capture the fundamentals of the complex problem of climate change in a simplified way. The model is a multidisciplinary product and is based on knowledge from disciplines as economics atmospheric chemistry marine and terrestrial biogeochemistry ecology climatology and glaciology. This book might be of interest for anyone working in the broad field of climate change. Furthermore it can be useful for model builders simulation experts mathematicians etc. A PC version of the model will become avail able free of charge. Requests can be sent to the author. Although being the only author of this book I could never have written it without the help of many other people. First of all I would like to thank Koos Vriese originally a colleague at RIVM later my professor. Without his inspiring attitude I would have never finished this thesis. I am also very grateful to RIVM for giving me the opportunity to write this thesis. lowe many thanks to Hans de Boois and Rob Swart for their support and assis tance during the research. Furthermore I would like to thank my trainees who have substantially contributed to the contents of this book.

Assessment of Climate Change over the Indian Region R. Krishnan,J. Sanjay,Chellappan Gnanaseelan,Milind Mujumdar,Ashwini Kulkarni,Supriyo Chakraborty,2020-06-12 This open access book discusses the impact of human induced global climate change on the regional climate and monsoons of the Indian subcontinent adjoining Indian Ocean and the Himalayas It documents the regional climate change projections based on the climate models used in the IPCC Fifth Assessment Report AR5 and climate change modeling studies using the IITM Earth System Model ESM and CORDEX South Asia datasets The IPCC assessment reports published every 6 7 years constitute important reference materials for major policy decisions on climate change adaptation and mitigation While the IPCC assessment reports largely provide a global perspective on climate change the focus on regional climate change aspects is considerably limited The effects of climate change over the Indian subcontinent involve complex physical processes on different space and time scales especially given that the mean climate of this region is generally shaped by the Indian monsoon and the unique high elevation geographical features such as the Himalayas the Western Ghats the Tibetan Plateau and the adjoining Indian Ocean Arabian Sea and Bay of Bengal This book also presents policy relevant information based on robust scientific analysis and assessments of the observed and projected future climate change over the Indian region
