Race for Profit Keeanga-Yamahatta Taylor, 2019-09-03 LONGLISTED FOR THE 2019 NATIONAL BOOK AWARD FINALIST 2020 PULITZER PRIZE IN HISTORY By the late 1960s and early 1970s reeling from a wave of urban uprisings politicians finally worked to end the practice of redlining Reasoning that the turbulence could be calmed by turning Black city dwellers into homeowners

they passed the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and set about establishing policies to induce mortgage lenders and the real estate industry to treat Black homebuyers equally The disaster that ensued revealed that racist exclusion had not been eradicated but rather transmuted into a new phenomenon of predatory inclusion Race for Profit uncovers how exploitative real estate practices continued well after housing discrimination was banned The same racist structures and individuals remained intact after redlining s end and close relationships between regulators and the industry created incentives to ignore improprieties Meanwhile new policies meant to encourage low income homeownership created new methods to exploit Black homeowners The federal government guaranteed urban mortgages in an attempt to overcome resistance to lending to Black buyers as if unprofitability rather than racism was the cause of housing segregation Bankers investors and real estate agents took advantage of the perverse incentives targeting the Black women most likely to fail to keep up their home payments and slip into foreclosure multiplying their profits As a result by the end of the 1970s the nation s first programs to encourage Black homeownership ended with tens of thousands of foreclosures in Black communities across the country The push to uplift Black homeownership had descended into a goldmine for realtors and mortgage lenders and a ready made cudgel for the champions of deregulation to wield against government intervention of any kind Narrating the story of a sea change in housing policy and its dire impact on African Americans Race for Profit reveals how the urban core was transformed into a new frontier of cynical extraction

Ending Discrimination Against People with Mental and Substance Use Disorders National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Behavioral, Cognitive, and Sensory Sciences, Committee on the Science of Changing Behavioral Health Social Norms, 2016-09-03 Estimates indicate that as many as 1 in 4 Americans will experience a mental health problem or will misuse alcohol or drugs in their lifetimes. These disorders are among the most highly stigmatized health conditions in the United States and they remain barriers to full participation in society in areas as basic as education, housing, and employment. Improving the lives of people with mental health and substance abuse disorders has been a priority in the United States for more than 50 years. The Community Mental Health Act of 1963 is considered a major turning point in America's efforts to improve behavioral healthcare. It ushered in an era of optimism and hope and laid the groundwork for the consumer movement and new models of recovery. The consumer movement gave voice to people with mental and substance use disorders and brought their perspectives and experience into national discussions about mental health. However, over the same 50-year period, positive change in American public attitudes and beliefs about mental and substance use disorders has lagged behind these advances. Stigma is a complex social phenomenon based on a relationship between an attribute and a stereotype that assigns undesirable labels, qualities, and behaviors to a person with that attribute. Labeled individuals are then socially devalued, which leads to inequality and discrimination. This report contributes to national efforts to understand and change attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors that can lead to stigma and discrimination. Changing stigma in a lasting way will require coordinated efforts which are based on the best possible evidence supported at the national level with multiyear funding and planned and implemented by an effective coalition of representative stakeholders. Ending Discrimination Against People with Mental and Substance Use Disorders: The Evidence for Stigma Change explores stigma and discrimination faced by individuals with mental or substance use disorders and recommends effective strategies for reducing stigma and encouraging people to seek treatment and other supportive services. It offers a set of conclusions and recommendations about successful stigma change strategies and the research needed to inform and evaluate these efforts in the United States.

The Neuropsychology of Vision Manfred Fahle, Mark Greenlee, 2003-10-30 The Neuropsychology of Vision describes a range of new approaches to neuropsychological investigation and provides a broad overview of visual neuropsychology. The book starts by presenting the results from new research employing single unit recordings on the neuronal basis of perception, demonstrating that the visual system relies strongly on feedback from higher to lower levels of information processing and that neuronal plasticity exists in the primary sensory cortices of adults, areas previously considered to be hard-wired. The book also describes other new and adapted techniques to measure brain activity, including multi-unit sum potential recording, functional magnetic resonance imaging, and employing transcranial magnetic stimulation to induce temporary circumscribed functional lesions in the cortices of normal subjects to mimic disorders. The coverage then moves on to review the experience of patients suffering from disturbances of visual perception. The disorders covered include agnosia, neglect, blindsight, and achromatopsia The final chapter is devoted to recovery and rehabilitation from cerebral visual disorder Professors Fahle and Greenlee have brought together some of the leading international specialists in the field to provide this comprehensive and up to date review

Segregation by Design Jessica Trounstein,2018-11-15 Segregation by Design draws on more than 100 years of quantitative and qualitative data from thousands of American cities to explore how local governments generate race and class segregation Starting in the early twentieth century cities have used their power of land use control to determine the location and availability of housing amenities such as parks and negative land uses such as garbage dumps The result has been segregation first within cities and more recently between them Documenting changing patterns of segregation and their political mechanisms Trounstein argues that city governments have pursued these policies to enhance the wealth and resources of white property owners at the expense of people of color and the poor Contrary to leading theories of urban politics local democracy has not functioned to represent all residents The result is unequal access to fundamental local services from schools to safe neighborhoods to clean water

Brown v. Board of Education James T. Patterson,2001-03-01 2004 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Supreme Court s unanimous decision to end segregation in public schools Many people were elated when Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren delivered Brown v Board of Education of Topeka in May 1954 the ruling that struck down state sponsored racial segregation in America s public schools Thurgood Marshall chief attorney for the black families that launched the litigation exclaimed later I was so happy I was numb The novelist Ralph Ellison wrote another battle of the Civil War has been won The rest is up to us and I m very glad What a wonderful world of possibilities are unfolded for the children Here in a concise moving narrative Bancroft Prize winning historian James T Patterson takes readers through the dramatic case and its fifty year aftermath A wide range of characters animates the story from the little known African Americans who dared to challenge Jim Crow with lawsuits at great personal cost to Thurgood Marshall who later became a Justice himself to Earl Warren who shepherded a fractured Court to a unanimous decision Others include segregationist politicians like Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas Presidents Eisenhower Johnson and Nixon and controversial Supreme Court justices such as William Rehnquist and Clarence Thomas Most Americans still see Brown as a triumph but was it Patterson shrewdly explores the provocative questions that still swirl around the case Could the Court or President Eisenhower have done more to ensure compliance with Brown Did the decision touch off the modern civil rights movement How useful are court ordered busing and affirmative action against racial segregation To what extent has racial mixing affected the academic achievement of black children Where indeed do we go from here to realize the expectations of Marshall Ellison and others in 1954
