Evidence-Based Health Informatics E. Ammenwerth, M. Rigby, 2016-05-20 Health IT is a major field of investment in support of healthcare delivery but patients and professionals tend to have systems imposed upon them by organizational policy or as a result of even higher policy decision And while many health IT systems are efficient and welcomed by their users and are essential to modern healthcare this is not the case for all Unfortunately some systems cause user frustration and result in inefficiency in use and a few are known to have inconvenienced patients or even caused harm including the occasional death This book seeks to answer the need for better understanding of the importance of robust evidence to support health IT and to optimize investment in it to give insight into health IT evidence and evaluation as its primary source and to promote health informatics as an underpinning science demonstrating the same ethical rigour and proof of net benefit as is expected of other applied health technologies The book is divided into three parts the context and importance of evidence based health informatics methodological considerations of health IT evaluation as the source of evidence and ensuring the relevance and application of evidence A number of cross cutting themes emerge in each of these sections This book seeks to inform the reader on the wide range of knowledge available and the appropriateness of its use according to the circumstances It is aimed at a wide readership and will be of interest to health policymakers clinicians health informaticians the academic health informatics community members of patient and policy organisations and members of the vendor industry

Islamic Education in Indonesia and Malaysia Azmil Tayeb, 2018-03-13 Despite their close geographic and cultural ties Indonesia and Malaysia have dramatically different Islamic education with that in Indonesia being relatively decentralized and discursively diverse while that in Malaysia is centralized and discursively restricted The book explores the nature of the Islamic education systems in Indonesia and Malaysia and the different approaches taken by these states in managing these systems The book argues that the post colonial state in Malaysia has been more successful in centralising its control over Islamic education and more concerned with promoting a restrictive orthodoxy compared to the post colonial state in Indonesia This is due to three factors the ideological makeup of the state institutions that oversee Islamic education patterns of societal Islamisation that have prompted different responses from the states and control of resources by the central government that influences centre periphery relations Informed by the theoretical works of state in society relations and historical institutionalism this book shows that the three aforementioned factors can help a state to minimize influence from the society and exert its dominance in this case by centralising control over Islamic education Specifically they help us understand the markedly different landscapes of Islamic education in Malaysia and Indonesia It will be of interest to academics in the field of Southeast Asian Studies Asian Education and Comparative Education

Infrared Spectroscopy in Conservation Science Michele R. Derrick, Dusan Stulik, James M. Landry, 2000-03-16 This book provides practical information on the use of infrared IR spectroscopy for the analysis of materials found in cultural objects. Designed for scientists and students in the fields of archaeology, art conservation, microscopy, forensics, chemistry, and optics, the book discusses techniques for examining the microscopic amounts of complex, aged components in objects such as paintings, sculptures, and archaeological fragments. Chapters include the history of infrared spectroscopy, the basic parameters of infrared absorption theory, IR instrumentation, analysis methods, sample collection and preparation, and spectra interpretation. The authors cite several case studies such as examinations of Chumash Indian paints and the Dead Sea Scrolls. The Institute's Tools for Conservation series provides practical scientific procedures and methodologies for the practice of conservation. The series is specifically directed to conservation scientists, conservators, and technical experts in related fields.

Medical Education in the United States and Canada Abraham Flexner, 1910 A landmark work which precipitated major reforms in medical education. It recommended closing commercial schools and reducing the overall number of medical schools from 155 to 31 with the aim of raising standards. Includes frank evaluative sketches of each school based on site visits by the author.

Critical Conversations Susan Gross Forneris, Mary Fey, 2017-09-07 With today's health care systems demanding not only capable nurses but also reflective practitioners, nurse educators are challenged more than ever to engage students in making sense of their experiences and responding thoughtfully to diverse situations. Critical Conversations helps nursing educators discover how better listening can lead to better learning with insightful guidance on the conversations that drive effective understanding for both instructors and students. Applying The NLN Guide for Teaching Thinking, this monograph helps nursing educators practice and implement the most effective strategies for fostering critical conversations across simulation, classroom, and clinical learning environments. From conceptualizing learning as meaning-making to the cognitive strategy of being critical and engaging learners through purposeful learning conversations, straightforward exemplars throughout the text offer a support structure to guide educators in helping students learn to think deeply and critically in any setting.

Teaching in the Fourth Industrial Revolution Armand Doucet, Jelmer Evers, Elisa Guerra, Dr. Nadia Lopez, Michael Soskil, Koen Timmers, 2018-02-19 In this visionary book written by six internationally recognized Global Teacher Prize finalists, the authors create a positive and hope-filled template for the future of education. They address the hard moral, ethical, and pedagogical questions facing education today so that progress can serve society rather than destroying it from within our classrooms. This blueprint for education finally brings forward what has always been missing in education reform: a strong collective narrative with authentic examples from teachers on the front line. It is a holistic, personalized approach to education that harnesses the disruptions of the Fourth Industrial Revolution to better shape the future for the next generation and ensure that every child can benefit from the ongoing transformations. A great read for anyone who has an interest in educating our youth for these uncertain times, highlighting why teachers will always matter.
