The Victorian City Judith Flanders, 2014-07-15 From the New York Times bestselling and critically acclaimed author of The Invention of Murder an extraordinary revelatory portrait of everyday life on the streets of Dickens London The nineteenth century was a time of unprecedented change and nowhere was this more apparent than London In only a few decades the capital grew from a compact Regency town into a sprawling metropolis of 6.5 million inhabitants the largest city the world had ever seen Technology railways street lighting and sewers transformed both the city and the experience of city living as London expanded in every direction Now Judith Flanders one of Britain's foremost social historians explores the world portrayed so vividly in Dickens novels showing life on the streets of London in colorful fascinating detail From the moment Charles Dickens the century's best loved English novelist and London's greatest observer arrived in the city in 1822 he obsessively walked its streets recording its pleasures curiosities and cruelties Now with him Judith Flanders leads us through the markets transport systems sewers rivers slums alleys cemeteries gin palaces chop houses and entertainment emporia of Dickens London to reveal the Victorian capital in all its variety vibrancy and squalor From the colorful cries of street sellers to the uncomfortable reality of travel by omnibus to the many uses for the body parts of dead horses and the unimaginably grueling working days of hawker children no detail is too small or too strange No one who reads Judith Flanders's meticulously researched captivatingly written The Victorian City will ever view London in the same light again

The Victorian City Judith Flanders, 2012-10-01 From the bestselling popular historian comes a masterly recreation of Victorian London whose raucous streets and teeming denizens inspired and permeated the works of one of Britain's and the world's greatest novelists Charles Dickens The nineteenth century was a time of unprecedented transformation and nowhere was this more apparent than on the streets of London In only a few decades London grew from a Regency town to the biggest city the world had ever seen with more than 6.5 million people and railways street lighting and new buildings at every turn In The Victorian House Judith Flanders described in intimate detail what went on inside the nineteenth century home Now in The Victorian City she explores London's outdoors in an extraordinary revelatory portrait of everyday life on the streets From the moment Charles Dickens the century's best loved novelist and London's greatest observer arrived in the city in 1822 he obsessively walked its streets recording its pleasures curiosities and cruelties Now with him Judith Flanders leads us through the markets transport systems sewers rivers slums alleys cemeteries gin palaces chop houses and entertainment emporia of Dickens London to reveal the Victorian capital in all its variety vibrancy and squalor From the colourful cries of street sellers to the uncomfortable reality of travel by omnibus via the many uses for the body parts of dead horses or the unimaginably grueling working days of hawker children no detail is too small or too strange No one who reads Judith Flanders's The Victorian City will view London in the same light again

The Invention of Murder Judith Flanders, 2013-07-23 Superb Flanders's convincing and smart synthesis of the evolution of an official police force fictional detectives and real life cases will appeal to devotees of true crime and detective fiction alike Publishers Weekly starred review In this fascinating exploration of murder in nineteenth century England Judith Flanders examines some of the most gripping cases that captivated the Victorians and gave rise to the first detective fiction Murder in the nineteenth century was rare But murder as sensation and entertainment became ubiquitous with cold blooded killings transformed into novels broadsides ballads opera and melodrama even into puppet shows and performing dog acts Detective fiction and the new police force developed in parallel each imitating the other the founders of Scotland Yard gave rise to Dickens's Inspector Bucket the first fictional police detective who in turn influenced Sherlock Holmes and ultimately even P D James and Patricia Cornwell In this meticulously researched and engrossing book Judith Flanders retells the gruesome stories of many different types of murder in Great Britain both famous and obscure from Greenacre who transported his dismembered fiancée around town by omnibus to Burke and Hare's bodysnatching business in Edinburgh from the crimes and myths of Sweeney Todd and Jack the Ripper to the tragedy of the murdered Marr family in London's East End Through these stories of murder from the brutal to the pathetic Flanders builds a rich and multi faceted portrait of Victorian society in Great Britain With an irresistible cast of swindlers forgers and poisoners the mad the bad and the utterly dangerous The Invention of Murder is both a mesmerizing tale of crime and punishment and history at its most readable

A Place for Everything Judith Flanders, 2020-10-20 From a New York Times bestselling historian comes the story of how the alphabet ordered our world A Place for Everything is the first ever history of alphabetization from the Library of Alexandria to Wikipedia The story of alphabetical order has been shaped by some of history's most compelling characters such as industrious and enthusiastic early adopter Samuel Pepys and dedicated alphabet champion Denis Diderot But though even George Washington was a proponent many others stuck to older forms of classification Yale listed its students by their family's social status until 1886 And yet while the order of the alphabet now rules libraries phone books reference books even the order of entry for the teams at the Olympic Games it has remained curiously invisible With abundant inquisitiveness and wry humor historian Judith Flanders traces the triumph of alphabetical order and offers a compendium of Western knowledge from A to Z A Times UK Best Book of 2020

The Making of Home Judith Flanders, 2014-10-02 The idea that home is a special place a separate place a place where we can be our true selves is so obvious to us today that we barely pause to think about it But as Judith Flanders shows in this revealing book home is a relatively new concept When in 1900 Dorothy assured the citizens of Oz that There is no place like home she was expressing a view that was a culmination of 300 years of economic physical and emotional change In The Making of Home Flanders traces the evolution of the house across northern Europe and America from the sixteenth to the early twentieth century and paints a striking picture of how the homes we know today differ from homes through history The transformation of houses into homes she argues was not a private matter but an essential ingredient in the rise of capitalism and the birth of the Industrial Revolution Without home the modern world as we know it would not exist and as Flanders charts the development of ordinary household objects from cutlery chairs and curtains to fitted kitchens plumbing and windows she also peels back the myths that surround some of our most basic assumptions including our entire notion of what it is that makes a family As full of fascinating detail as her previous bestsellers The Making of Home is also a book teeming with original and provocative ideas went uncollected cesspools brimmed with night soil graveyards teemed with rotting corpses the air itself was choked with smoke In this intimately visceral book Lee Jackson guides us through the underbelly of the Victorian metropolis introducing us to the men and women who struggled to stem a rising tide of pollution and dirt and the forces that opposed them Through thematic chapters Jackson describes how Victorian reformers met with both triumph and disaster Full of individual stories and overlooked details from the dustmen who grew rich from recycling to the peculiar history of the public toilet this riveting book gives us a fresh insight into the minutiae of daily life and the wider challenges posed by the unprecedented growth of the Victorian capital

The Victorian House Judith Flanders,2003 A middle class home circa 1850 of the sort that many people live in today is the focus of Judith Flanders book The Victorian age is both recent and unimaginably distant In the most prosperous and technologically advanced nation in the world people carried slops up and down stairs buried meat in fresh earth to prevent mould forming wrung sheets out in boiling water with their bare hands This drudgery was routinely performed by the parents of people still living but the knowledge of it has passed as if it had never been Running water stoves flush lavatories even lavatory paper arrived slowly throughout the century and most were luxuries available only to the prosperous
