Food Jennifer Clapp, 2016-04-29 We all need food to survive and forty percent of the world's population relies on agriculture for their livelihood. Yet control over food is concentrated in relatively few hands. Turmoil in the world food economy over the past decade, including the food price crisis, intensification of land grabs, and clashes over rules governing global food trade, has highlighted both the volatility and vulnerability inherent in the way we currently organize this vital sector. At the same time, contrasting extremes of both undernourishment and overnourishment affect a significant proportion of humanity. There is also growing awareness of the serious ecological consequences that stem from industrial models of agriculture that are increasingly spreading worldwide. The revised and updated second edition of this popular book aims to contribute to a fuller understanding of the forces that influence and shape the current global food system. In it, Jennifer Clapp explores how the rise of industrial agriculture, corporate control, inequitable agricultural trade rules, and the financialization of food have each enabled powerful actors to gain fundamental influence on the practices that dominate the world food economy. A variety of movements have emerged that are making important progress in establishing alternative food systems, but as Clapp's penetrating analysis ably shows, significant challenges remain. National Geographic Almanac of World History Patricia S. Daniels, Patricia Daniels, Stephen Garrison Hyslop, 2006 Traces the history of how humankind evolved from its first beginnings to the complex societies that exist today. National Geographic Visual History of the World Klaus Berndt, 2005 Publisher Description National Geographic Almanac 2021 National Geographic, 2020-08-25 The essential annual for the 21st century, this high-energy almanac is packed with facts, photos, infographics, time lines, and maps—the perfect stocking stuffer and book to browse all year long. A guide to the world like no other, this vivid and comprehensive book offers the best of National Geographic and more: science, nature, history, world cultures, geography, and the environment, illustrated with amazing photography, fascinating infographics, and maps created by expert cartographers. Highlights this year include a sneak preview of the James Webb telescope due to launch in 2021, an in-depth look at the global factors influencing immigration around the world, a brand-new wildflower guide, a guided tour of the most interesting moons of our solar system, a beautiful infographic on how jellyfish eat, and a feature on lithium, the fascinating mineral central to the work of this year's Nobel prizewinner in chemistry. Beginning with top trending topics of 2021, including a special focus on biodiversity, the book is divided into lively chapters including Exploration, Adventure, This Planet, Beyond Life on Earth, and The Science of Us. Recurring features include highlights from NG explorers' favorite photos from National Geographic's celebrated Instagram account and Quizmaster trivia questions for each chapter. Geniuses of past and present highlighted this year include Jane Goodall, Amelia Earhart, and acclaimed conservationist Kris Tompkins, dedicated to preserving most of Chile's Patagonia. With new discoveries on every page, this cutting-edge book called a category buster by Booklist brings you as Publishers Weekly puts it, all the things that National Geographic does best. National Geographic Kids Ultimate Dinopedia Don Lessem, 2010 Suitable for children ages 7–10, this book includes information on various dinosaurs.
