

Philosophy of Education for a Teacher

4 pages | 806 words

The word "teacher" does the profession no service. A teacher is really a combination of the most important professions in the world. Besides the parents, an educator is the biggest influence in a child's life. The age span in which children are in school is the most impressionable years of their lives. A student's educational experience can mold the events of his or her future. That is why I want to become a teacher. I want to be a mold for younger generations, and I hope for students to remember a knowledgeable and ethical teacher. Beliefs I feel the student should come to school willing to learn and the teacher should come ready to teach! The student's role is just as important as the teachers; the student's expectations of the teacher should be for her to teach and help them learn at all times. Teachers also play an important role in the classroom when it comes to the environment. If the teacher prepares a warm, happy environment, students are more likely to be happy. An environment set by the teacher can be either good or bad. If students feel the teacher is angry, students may react badly to that and therefore learning can be harder. I think teachers are responsible for the social behavior in their classrooms. This behavior is primarily a reflection of the teacher's actions and the environment he/she sets. Metaphysics We are all here for a purpose and I believe that, that is to live for God and follow his way of life. It is hard to know what you are really on earth for until you find it through him! Some teachers will find it hard to keep the focus on the classroom do to all the other outside distractions but, I strongly believe that is you were meant to be a teacher then you will find a way to look past the bad and find the good. Why am I here? I think I am here to help children follow their dreams and make it through school easier than I did. When I become a teacher I want to be the best ever! I want to see that smile on the kids' faces after I teach them something amazing. Progressivism I want to teach from some aspects of the progressivism style which focuses on respect for individuality, high regard for science, and learning from experience. I want to teach the children in my classroom to have respect for each other. This is a quality that will help them to be successful in society because if they respect others, then others will have respect for them. Having respect for others also shows that they have respect for themselves. I also want children to learn by hands-on activities. I will direct them from step to step and demonstrate how to do each step in the activities they perform. These activities make learning more interesting for the children because the children are able to get involved instead of just always watching the teacher do everything. Speaking of the children getting involved, they can really get involved when learning...

Educational Judgments: Papers in the Philosophy of Education James F. Doyle,1973 Educational Judgments (International Library of the Philosophy of Education Volume 9) F. Doyle James,2010-02-25 The topics covered in this volume originally published in 1973 include the need for a more adequate concept or definition of education the issue of whether indoctrination is compatible with education particularly with moral education and the processes of judging the merits of different approaches to aesthetic education Two contributors present complementary analyses of the relations between freedom as a characteristic of institutions and the process of learning to be a free man There is discussion of the neglected subject of rights and duties in education with special emphasis on the question of a universal right to education The volume concludes with papers on the relevance of philosophy to the practical judgments of educators and to education as a field of study Educational Judgments James F. Democracy and Education John Dewey,1916 Renewal of Life by Transmission The most notable distinction between living and inanimate things is that the former maintain themselves by renewal A stone when struck resists If its resistance is greater than the force of the blow struck it remains outwardly unchanged Otherwise it is shattered into smaller bits Never does the stone attempt to react in such a way that it may maintain itself against the blow much less so as to render the blow a contributing factor to its own continued action While the living thing may easily be crushed by superior force it none the less tries to turn the energies which act upon it into means of its own further existence If it cannot do so it does not just split into smaller pieces at least in the higher forms of life but loses its identity as a living thing As long as it endures it struggles to use surrounding energies in its own behalf It uses light air moisture and the material of soil To say that it uses them is to say that it turns them into means of its own conservation As long as it is growing the energy it expends in thus turning the environment to account is more than compensated for by the return it gets it grows Understanding the word control in this sense it may be said that a living being is one that subjugates and controls for its own continued activity the energies that would otherwise use it up Life is a self renewing process through action upon the environment Educational Judgments James F. curriculum Teaching Philosophy Steven M. Cahn, 2018-03-09 Some students find philosophy engrossing others are merely bewildered How can professors meet the challenge of teaching introductory level philosophy so that their students regardless of initial incentive or skill come to understand and even enjoy the subject For nearly a decade renowned philosopher and teacher Steven M Cahn offered doctoral students a fourteen week credit bearing course to prepare them to teach undergraduates At schools where these instructors were appointed department chairs reported a dramatic increase in student interest In this book Cahn captures the essence of that course Yet many of the topics he discusses concern all faculty regardless of subject a teacher s responsibilities the keys to effective instruction the proper approach to term papers examinations and grades and suggestions for how administrators should demonstrate that they take teaching seriously Such matters are covered in the first seven chapters and in the final fourteenth chapter The intermediate six chapters focus on teaching introductory philosophy and in particular on critical thinking free will philosophy of religion ethics and political philosophy Cahn s writing is lucid and lively using vivid examples and avoiding educational jargon In sum this book is not only a guide on how to inspire students but also an inspiration for teachers themselves Philosophy of Education ,2018
