

1.1 Solution Scope

The scope is to provide infrastructure architecture for the BLITZ project. We will be architecting for the Accela system. The solutions included are the Accela Civic Cloud, Accela Application Services, and Accela Automation Services.

1.2 Design Objectives and Constraints

The design objectives are to build a robust solution for our business customers. One objective is to replace the CLIPS system currently in place. The solution should be supportable for up to 15 years. This will require hardware replacement on 4 year intervals. The major constraint was the short time we had to prepare and review the solutions before designing.

2 HIGH LEVEL DESIGN

2.1 Design Choices

We made two major choices in architecting this solution.

The first decision is the use of private cloud technology. For the forward facing web servers we decided to add resources to the Enterprise DMZ cloud and dedicate those resources to the BLITZ servers. For the services within the internal network, we decided on a private cloud to support the BLITZ solution. This gives us the flexibility of a cloud solution with the dedicate resources of a physical solution.

The second decision is Microsoft SQL for the database solution. The major reason for the decision is the that Microsoft SQL is our enterprise standard. We did decide to form two resource pools for the SQL resources. The development and QA databases will reside on one pool and use MSDN licensing and the production databases will reside on the other pool and use Enterprise licenses.
