

Courtroom Observation Experience: Reflective Essay

On November 6, 2019, I had the opportunity to go to court and observe an interesting Preliminary Hearing case. The case that I sat through was a rape case about how a twelve years old girl said that her fifty year old uncle would sexually touch her and do certain things to her every time she would go over to his house. The prosecutor asked the young girl a series of inquiries such as "whenever you were going over to your uncle's house did you feel terrified of what he might do to you without anyone else around." I was speechless when she answered "I was afraid, and I would get angry at my mom when I asked her if I can go over to my grandparent's house instead and she would always say no."

As the trial went on the questions the prosecutor was asking by the minute were getting deeper every second and the answers were very detailed. Some of the inquiries that were asked were as following: "was it only when you went to your uncle's house, when would your uncle sexually touch you, when your uncle was sexually touch you were you standing up or laying down, did anybody ever walk in while he was doing things to you, did you ever think your uncle was worried about getting caught by someone." The very first thing I noticed when I walked in and took my seat, was to the left of the holding stalls was a sign saying if anybody talked to any of the defendants, it was considered a misdemeanor.

I never thought that would have to be put up in a courtroom. I had been in a courtroom before but it was for juveniles and their families to observe only. Being in a courtroom

Searl, 1922 Strengthening Forensic Science in the United States National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Committee on Applied and Theoretical Statistics, Policy and Global Affairs, Committee on Science, Technology, and Law, Committee on Identifying the Needs of the Forensic Sciences Community, 2009-07-29 Scores of talented and dedicated people serve the forensic science community performing vitally important work However they are often constrained by lack of adequate resources sound policies and national support It is clear that change and advancements both systematic and scientific are needed in a number of forensic science disciplines to ensure the reliability of work establish enforceable standards and promote best practices with consistent application Strengthening Forensic Science in the United States A Path Forward provides a detailed plan for addressing these needs and suggests the creation of a new government entity the National Institute of Forensic Science to establish and enforce standards within the forensic science community The benefits of improving and regulating the forensic science disciplines are clear assisting law enforcement officials enhancing homeland security and reducing the risk of wrongful conviction and exoneration Strengthening Forensic Science in the United States gives a full account of what is needed to advance the forensic science disciplines including upgrading of systems and organizational structures better training widespread adoption of uniform and enforceable best practices and mandatory certification and accreditation programs While this book provides an essential call to action for congress and policy makers it also serves as a vital tool for law enforcement agencies criminal prosecutors and attorneys and forensic science educators ... paper on the Court Collection Thomas H. Court, 1929 Writer's Workbook , 2002 Designed for use during Workshop workbooks provide quicksupport and extension activities for students Trust in the Law Tom R. Tyler, Yuen J. Huo, 2002-10-10 Public opinion polls suggest that American s trust in the police and courts is declining The same polls also reveal a disturbing racial divide with minorities expressing greater levels of distrust than whites Practices such as racial profiling zero tolerance and three strikes laws the use of excessive force and harsh punishments for minor drug crimes all contribute to perceptions of injustice In Trust in the Law psychologists Tom R Tyler and Yuen J Huo present a compelling argument that effective law enforcement requires the active engagement and participation of the communities it serves and argue for a cooperative approach to law enforcement that appeals to people s sense of fair play even if the outcomes are not always those with which they agree Based on a wide ranging survey of citizens who had recent contact with the police or courts in Oakland and Los Angeles Trust in the Law examines the sources of people s favorable and unfavorable reactions to their encounters with legal authorities Tyler and Huo address the issue from a variety of angles the psychology of decision acceptance the importance of individual personal experiences and the role of ethnic group identification They find that people react primarily to whether or not they are treated with dignity and respect and the degree to which they feel they have been treated fairly helps to shape their acceptance of the legal process Their findings show significantly less willingness on the part of minority group members who feel they have been treated unfairly to trust the motives to subsequent legal decisions of law enforcement authorities Since most people in the study generalize from their personal experiences with individual police officers and judges Tyler and Huo suggest that gaining maximum cooperation and consent of the public depends upon fair and transparent decision making and treatment on the part of law enforcement officers Tyler and Huo conclude that the best way to encourage compliance with the law is for legal authorities to implement programs that foster a sense of personal involvement and responsibility For example community policing programs in which the local population is actively engaged in monitoring its own neighborhood have been shown to be an effective tool in improving police community relationships Cooperation between legal authorities and community members is a much discussed but often elusive goal Trust in the Law shows that legal authorities can behave in ways that encourage the voluntary acceptance of their directives while also building trust and confidence in the overall legitimacy of the police and courts A Volume in the Russell Sage Foundation Series on Trust

County and based on over 1 000 hours of observation she takes readers inside our so called halls of justice to witness the types of everyday racial abuses that fester within the courts often in plain sight We watch white courtroom professionals classify and deliberate on the fates of mostly black and Latino defendants while racial abuse and due process violations are encouraged and even seen as justified Judges fall asleep on the bench Prosecutors hang out like frat boys in the judges chambers while the fates of defendants hang in the balance Public defenders make choices about which defendants they will try to save and which they will sacrifice Sheriff s officers cruelly mock and abuse defendants family members Delve deeper into Crook County with related media and instructor resources at www sup org crookcountyresources Crook County s powerful and at times devastating narratives reveal startling truths about a legal culture steeped in racial abuse Defendants find themselves thrust into a pernicious legal world where courtroom actors live and breathe racism while simultaneously committing themselves to a colorblind ideal Gonzalez Van Cleve urges all citizens to take a closer look at the way we do justice in America and to hold our arbiters of justice accountable to the highest standards of equality Wooden: A Lifetime of Observations and Reflections On and Off the Court John Wooden,1997-04-22 NATIONAL BESTSELLER I am just a common man who is true to his beliefs John Wooden Evoking days gone by when coaches were respected as much for their off court performances as for their success on the court Wooden presents the timeless wisdom of legendary basketball coach John Wooden In honest and telling passages about virtually every aspect of life Coach shares his personal philosophy on family achievement success and excellence Raised on a small farm in south central Indiana he offers lessons and wisdom learned throughout his career at UCLA and life as a dedicated husband father and teacher These lessons along with personal letters from Bill Walton Denny Crum Kareem Abdul Jabbar and Bob Costas among others have made Wooden A Lifetime of Observations and Reflections on and off the Court an inspirational classic The Evaluation of Forensic DNA Evidence National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Commission on Life Sciences,Committee on DNA Forensic Science: An Update,1996-12-12 In 1992 the National Research Council issued DNA Technology in Forensic Science a book that documented the state of the art in this emerging field Recently this volume was brought to worldwide attention in the murder trial of celebrity O J Simpson The Evaluation of Forensic DNA Evidence reports on developments in population genetics and statistics since the original volume was published The committee comments on statements in the original book that proved controversial or that have been misapplied in the courts This volume offers recommendations for handling DNA samples performing calculations and other aspects of using DNA as a forensic tool modifying some recommendations presented in the 1992 volume The update addresses two major areas Determination of DNA profiles The committee considers how laboratory errors particularly false matches can arise how errors might be reduced and how to take into account the fact that the error rate can never be reduced to zero Interpretation of a finding that the DNA profile of a suspect or victim matches the evidence DNA The committee addresses controversies in population genetics exploring the problems that arise from the mixture of groups and subgroups in the American population and how this substructure can be accounted for in calculating frequencies This volume examines statistical issues in interpreting frequencies as probabilities including adjustments when a suspect is found through a database search The committee includes a detailed discussion of what its recommendations would mean in the courtroom with numerous case citations By resolving several remaining issues in the evaluation of this increasingly important area of forensic evidence this technical update will be important to forensic scientists and population geneticists and helpful to attorneys judges and others who need to understand DNA and the law Anyone working in laboratories and in the courts or anyone studying this issue should own this book

New York Supreme Court , Supreme Court , Communities in Action National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine,Health and Medicine Division,Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice,Committee on Community-Based Solutions to Promote Health Equity in the United States,2017-04-27 In the United States some populations suffer from far greater disparities in health than others Those disparities are caused not only by fundamental differences in health status across segments of the population but also because of inequities in factors that impact health status so called determinants of health Only part of an individual s health status depends on his or her behavior and choice community wide problems like poverty unemployment poor education inadequate housing poor public transportation interpersonal violence and decaying neighborhoods also contribute to health inequities as well as the historic and ongoing interplay of structures policies and norms that shape lives When these factors are not optimal in a community it does not mean they are intractable such inequities can be mitigated by social policies that can shape health in powerful ways Communities in Action Pathways to Health Equity seeks to delineate the causes of and the solutions to health inequities in the United States This report focuses on what communities can do to promote health equity what actions are needed by the many and varied stakeholders that are part of communities or support them as well as the root causes and structural barriers that need to be overcome
