Interview Research in Political Science Layna Mosley, 2013-05-03 Interviews are a frequent and important part of empirical research in political science but graduate programs rarely offer discipline specific training in selecting interviewees conducting interviews and using the data thus collected Interview Research in Political Science addresses this vital need offering hard won advice for both graduate students and faculty members The contributors to this book have worked in a variety of field locations and settings and have interviewed a wide array of informants from government officials to members of rebel movements and victims of wartime violence from lobbyists and corporate executives to workers and trade unionists The authors encourage scholars from all subfields of political science to use interviews in their research and they provide a set of lessons and tools for doing so The book addresses how to construct a sample of interviewees how to collect and report interview data and how to address ethical considerations and the Institutional Review Board process Other chapters discuss how to link interview based evidence with causal claims how to use proxy interviews or an interpreter to improve access and how to structure interview questions A useful appendix contains examples of consent documents semistructured interview prompts and interview protocols Contributors Frank R Baumgartner The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Matthew N Beckmann University of California Irvine Jeffrey M Berry Tufts University Erik Bleich Middlebury College Sarah M Brooks The Ohio State University Melani Cammett Brown University Lee Ann Fujii University of Toronto Mary Gallagher University of Michigan Richard L Hall University of Michigan Marie Hojnacki Pennsylvania State University David C Kimball University of Missouri St Louis Beth L Leech Rutgers the State University of New Jersey Julia F Lynch University of Pennsylvania Cathie Jo Martin Boston University Lauren Maclean Indiana University Layna Mosley The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Robert Pekkanen University of Washington William Reno Northwestern University Reuel R Rogers Northwestern University

Research Interviewing Elliot George MISHLER, Elliot George Mishler, 2009-06-30 Interviews hold a prominent place among the various research methods in the social and behavioral sciences This book presents a powerful critique of current views and techniques and proposes a new approach to interviewing At the heart of Mishler's argument is the notion that an interview is a type of discourse a speech event it is a joint product shaped and organized by asking and answering questions This view may seem self evident yet it does not guide most interview research In the mainstream tradition the discourse is suppressed Questions and answers are regarded as analogues to stimuli and responses rather than as forms of speech questions and the interviewer's behavior are standardized so that all respondents will receive the same stimulus respondents social and personal contexts of meaning are ignored While many researchers now recognize that context must be taken into account the question of how to do so effectively has not been resolved This important book illustrates how to implement practical alternatives to standard interviewing methods Drawing on current work in sociolinguistics as well as on his own extensive experience conducting interviews Mishler shows how interviews can be analyzed and interpreted as narrative accounts He places interviewing in a sociocultural context and examines the effects on respondents of different types of interviewing practice The respondents themselves he believes should be granted a more extensive role as participants and collaborators in the research process The book is an elegant work of synthesis clearly and persuasively written and supported by concrete examples of both standard interviewing and alternative methods It will be of interest to both scholars and clinicians in all the various fields for which the interview is an essential tool

The Active Interview James A. Holstein, Jaber F. Gubrium, 1995-04-20 The book provides an academic basis for discussion and development of active interviewing methods. The ideas raised will be interesting and valuable to those involved in developing new methodologies in qualitative research and interviewing. Helen Masey in Social Research Association News. The interpretive turn in social science has taken the interview and turned it upside down. Once thought to be the pipeline through which information was transmitted from a passive subject to an omniscient researcher, the new active interview considers the interviewer and interviewee as equal partners in constructing meaning around an interview event. This changes everything from the way of conceiving a sample to the ways in which the interview may be conducted and the results analyzed. In this brief volume, James A. Holstein and Jaber F. Gubrium outline the differences between the active interview and the traditional interview and give novice researchers clear guidance on conducting an interview that is the rich product of both parties. Students and professionals who use qualitative methods in the fields of sociology, anthropology, communication, psychology, education, social work, gerontology, and management will find The Active Interview to be a helpful and cogent guidebook.

Interviewing as Qualitative Research Irving Seidman, 1998 The new edition of this volume provides guidance for new and experienced interviewers to help them develop, shape, and reflect on interviewing as a qualitative research process. It offers examples of interviewing techniques as well as a discussion of the complexities of interviewing and its connections with the broader issues of qualitative research.

Reflective Interviewing Kathryn Roulston, 2010-02-11 Offering a theoretically informed guide for researchers learning how to interview in the social sciences, this book provides a practical approach to interviewing, helping researchers to learn about themselves as interviewers in ways that will inform the design, conduct, analysis, and representation of interview data. The author takes the reader through the practicalities of designing and conducting an interview study and relates various forms of interview to different underlying epistemological assumptions about how knowledge is produced. The book concludes with practical advice and perspectives from experienced researchers who use interviews as a method of data generation.

Chief Marketing Officers at Work Josh Steimle, 2016-08-04 Read 29 in-depth, candid interviews with people holding the top marketing roles within their organizations. Interviewees include CMOs and other top marketers from established companies and organizations such as Linda Boff of GE, Jeff Jones of Target, and Kenny Brian of the Harvard Business School, to startups such as Matt Price of Zendesk, Seth Farbman of Spotify, and Heather Zynczak of Domo. Interviewer Josh Steimle, contributor to business publications such as Forbes, Mashable, and TechCrunch, and founder of an international marketing agency, elicits a bounty of biographical anecdotes, professional insights, and career advice from each of the prominent marketers profiled in this book. Chief Marketing Officers at Work tells how CMOs and other top marketers from leading corporations, nonprofits, government entities, and startups got to where they are today, what their jobs entail, and the skills they use to thrive in their roles. Shows how top marketing executives continuously adapt to changes in technology, language, and culture that have an impact on their jobs. Locates where the boundaries between the role of CMOs and the roles of CEOs, CTOs, and COOs are blurring. Explores how CMO decisions are now driven by data rather than gut feelings. The current realities in marketing are clearly revealed in this book as interviewees discuss the challenges of their jobs and share their visions and techniques for breaking down silos, working with other departments, and following the data. These no-holds-barred interviews will be of great interest to all those who interact with marketing departments, including other C-level executives, managers, and other professionals at any level within the organization.

Computer-Assisted Interviewing Willem E.
