

Writing a research report

A research report can be based on practical work, research by reading or a study of an organisation or industrial/workplace situation.

1. Preparing

Identify the purpose/the aims of the research/research question.

Identify the audience. – lecturer/supervisor/company/organization management/staff. The amount of background included will vary depending on the knowledge of the “audience”.

2. Collecting and organising information

There are two main sources of information depending on the research task:

1. Reading — theory and other research
2. Research — experiments, data collection - questionnaires, surveys, observation, interviews.

Organise and collate the information in a logical order. Make sure you record the bibliographic information of your reading as you go along.

See Quick Tips on mind mapping techniques.

3. Planning

Before writing the report, prepare a detailed plan in outline form.

Consider the following:

Logical organisation

Information in a report must be organized logically. Communicate the main ideas followed by supporting details and examples. Start with the more important or significant information and move on to the least important information.

Headings

Use headings and suitable sub headings to clearly show the different sections. In longer reports the sections should be numbered.

4. Writing the report

1. Draft the report from your detailed plan.
2. Do not worry too much about the final form and language, but rather on presenting the ideas coherently and logically.
3. Redraft and edit. Check that sections contain the required information and use suitable headings, check ideas flow in a logical order and remove any unnecessary information.
4. Write in an academic style and tone.
  - Use a formal objective style.
  - Generally avoid personal pronouns; however, some reports based on your own field experience or work placement can be reflective the first person can be used. For example, “I observed...”. If in doubt about this, check with the lecturer.

Pocket Guide to Preparing Social Work Research Articles Bruce Thyer,2008-02-14 The art of writing up a completed research project in a format suitable for submission to a social work journal is an ability separate from one's skills as a research methodologist. It is also an ability that despite its importance is often overlooked by research courses and senior level mentors. This straightforward pocket guide to Preparing Research Articles steps into the void as an insider's guide to getting published. Drawing on nearly 20 years of experience editing a social work research journal, Bruce A. Thyer has crafted a candid companion to the journal publishing process, unraveling the mysteries that students as well as many established researchers might otherwise stumble over and as a result their prospectus for future success improve. Thyer's frank advice on selecting an appropriate journal, handling rejections and revisions, understanding confusing concepts like impact factors and electronic publishing, and avoiding common methodological and formatting pitfalls constitute a gold mine for the fledgling researcher/writer.

Form & Style Carole Slade, Robert Perrin, 2007. Form and Style provides exceptional guidance on writing, documenting and formatting research papers, reports, theses and dissertations. Covering the entire research process, it includes the latest information on using print and electronic sources.

Qualitative Research Proposals and Reports Patricia L. Munhall, 2000. The Guide Includes Internet Resources And Appendices With Examples Of Outlines Of Different Methods.

Reporting and Publishing Research in the Biomedical Sciences Peush Sahni, Rakesh Aggarwal, 2018-08-21. This book eases the task of converting research work into a manuscript and covers the recent developments in publishing that often stump budding researchers. Few researchers in the biomedical sciences are trained in the essential skills of reporting their results and they seek help in writing a paper that will be acceptable for publication in the right journal and in presenting their results effectively at a meeting. As well as covering the basic aspects of preparing manuscripts for publication, the book discusses best practices and issues relating to the publication of biomedical research including topics such as peer review, authorship, plagiarism, conflicts of interest, publication misconduct, electronic publishing and open access journals. With more than two decades of experience in conducting workshops on writing scientific papers, the editors have brought together the expertise of 29 authors from seven countries to produce this one-stop guide to publishing research in biomedical sciences. This book is intended for young researchers who are beginning their careers and wish to hone their skills and understand the rigors of research writing and publishing.

Writing Research Papers Across the Curriculum Susan M. Hubbuch, 1996. Designed as a self-contained guide, this clear and efficient handbook takes students through the steps and strategies of writing research papers in many disciplines. It introduces two documentation styles for the humanities and two for the social and natural sciences, giving instructors tremendous flexibility in adapting the guide to discipline-specific assignments. Set apart by its appreciation of the experiences of real people undertaking research, this substantially revised fourth edition also focuses on the critical thinking processes essential to research and writing. The new edition is written in a personal, sensible first-person voice that speaks directly to students

Reporting Qualitative Research in Psychology Heidi M. Levitt, 2020 Reporting standards are guidelines that describe how to communicate findings clearly in journal articles so that readers can access and understand the story of the research endeavor Recognizing that reporting standards can aid authors in the process of writing and evaluating manuscripts and editors and reviewers in the process of evaluating those manuscripts the Publications and Communications PC Board of the American Psychological Association APA invited two task forces of researchers to develop standards for reporting quantitative and qualitative research in journal articles The Quantitative Journal Article Reporting Standards Working Group developed standards for quantitative research and a separate book details those standards This book discusses the reporting standards It permits the space to expand on the ideas in those standards and to articulate the rationale behind each It articulates decisions one may need to make as an author as one decides how to present their work It also provides examples to illustrate a strong presentation style and these can serve as helpful models It provides the conceptual undergirding for the reporting decisions that authors make during the writing process The book considers the typical sections of a qualitative research paper x1B b7 x1B Bthe introductory sections Method Results and Discussion Guidance is provided for how to best present qualitative research with rationales and illustrations The book presents reporting standards for qualitative meta analyses which are integrative analyses of findings from across primary qualitative research The book includes a discussion of objectivist and constructivist rhetorical styles in research reporting Preface PsycINFO Database Record c 2020 APA all rights reserved
